AUSTRIAN CHANCELLOR'S NARROW ESCAPE

PROSPERITY RETURNING Growing Confidence in Britain

ROOSEVELT CONFERS

MONETARY STATEMENT EXPECTED

STRIKE POSITION BETTER

New York, Oct. 3.
Speedy developments in the credit and monetary situation are suggested by the fact that President Roosevelt, as soon as he arrived from Chicago, conferred with General Hugh Johnson, Mr. W. H. Woodin and Mr. Harrison, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

An early official announcement of policy is generally expected.

It is probable that a speech outlining the Administration's programme will be made by President Roosevelt to-morrow night at latest.

It is thought that the industrial recovery situation has improved slightly.

MINERS GO BACK.

To-day about 25,000 miners returned to work in Western Pennsylvania, although a mass meeting of fifteen thousand miners at Pittsburgh voted against a return to work until the Frick Company has signed the Union contract.

Coal strikes continue to cause anxiety in several other States, while many steel workers are still striking because the Weirton Company refuses to deal with the Union.

Lorry-drivers in New York are still out, compelling emergency measures in order to keep the city food supplies ample for requirements.—Reuter.

RESIGNATION RUMOUR.

Washington, Oct. 3.

Despite President Roosevelt's eloquent appeal for national unity, it is rumoured that General Johnson, his chief lieutenant in the N.R.A., may resign.

General Johnson left for New York to-day to confer with President Roosevelt on the N.R.A. policies and the chief problems confronting the administration. The increased strikes, it is felt, are serious enough to threaten the food supplies of the city.

The latest development in the code campaign is the protest by prominent film actors and actresses against the formation of a salary control board, and fourteen have resigned from the Motion Picture Academy.

SOME WORKERS RETURN.

On the other hand, while New York is menaced with strikes, it is announced that the local Mediation Board has settled disputes involving 30,000 workers during its week's existence, while previously the New York N.R.A. chairman had settled the strike of 60,000 workers in the dress industry.

The annual convention of the Federation of Labour opened to-day after the Executive Council had drawn up a resolution calling for the revision of all codes now in operation in order to assure higher wages and a 30-hour week.

Mr. W. Green, in a speech to the convention, declared that the 11,000,000 unemployed will not be re-employed until the issue is boldly and uncompromisingly faced, and a six-hour day and five-day week established.—Reuter.

It is notified that subscriptions for the New Day Fund should be sent to the Hon. Treasurer, Navy Day Fund, H.M.S. Tamar.

SPANISH CABINET RESIGNS

Non-Confidence Vote in Cortes

Madrid, Oct. 3.
The Prime Minister, Senor Lerroux, who has been in office for less than a month, has resigned. The Lerroux Government was defeated on a vote of non-confidence in the Cortes to-night by 181 votes to 91.—Reuter.

BASEBALL RIOT

MOB TRIES TO GATE CRASH

WORLD SERIES INTRODUCTION

New York, Oct. 3.
The World Series was introduced in New York to-day with a sensational riot by 15,000 baseball fans, who endeavoured to obtain admittance by force of numbers to the already capacity-filled Polo Grounds.

A crowd of 48,000 had already been packed in the enclosure when the rioting broke out in the street outside.

Almost without warning, the mob surged towards the gates, trampling on each other in vain efforts to break through the cordon of police.

The police wielded their fists in their efforts to keep off the invaders, and they succeeded after a furious melee in preventing the gates being broken down.

MANY INJURED.

Nevertheless, over twenty people were badly injured in the scuffle, and several policemen, as well as civilians, were trampled on and received minor injuries.

The first match of the series saw the New York Giants, National League pennant winners, win from the Washington Senators, champions of the American League, by four runs to two. Details of the match will be found on the sports page.—Reuter.

NO FLASH IN THE PAN

MR. CHAMBERLAIN HOPEFUL

BANK BANQUET SPEECH

London, Oct. 3.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain, traditionally a purveyor of gloom, struck a highly optimistic note to-night at the annual banquet of the Bankers' Association at the Mansion House.

Points from his speech were:

The Budget will be balanced this year;

There was a further drop in unemployment in Britain during September;

We are seeing the beginning of a permanent advance and of definite progress;

Trade improvements in the last few months are no mere flash in the pan.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer expressed the view that Britain could look forward to the future with every confidence. The upturn was definite and was continuing steadily.

GOLD STANDARD.

Referring to the Government's financial policy, he declared that Britain would probably eventually return to the gold standard, but could not say when.

The requisite state of affairs to permit such action are not yet existing.

To show the urgency of reviving international trade, Mr. Chamberlain said that British exports halved in value during the years 1929 and 1932, and we lost some £365,000,000 in income.

FOUR OBJECTS.

The four principal objects to be achieved were

(a) a rise in wholesale prices, by international agreement if necessary

(b) the removal or the lowering of excessive trade barriers

(c) the establishment of an international monetary standard

(d) a resumption of international lending.—Reuter.

MOLLISON PLANE CRASHES

FROM FIVE FEET

SLIGHT DAMAGE: NO-ONE INJURED

Toronto, Oct. 4.

At their third attempt to take-off in their new plane, Seafarer Second, Mr. and Mrs. James Mollison plunged on to the air field at Wasaga Beach, Collingwood, after rising five feet in the air.

The accident, which was due to a strong cross-wind, twisted the under-carriage, and it is improbable that the Mollisons will be able to make a further attempt to-day, as the damage will doubtless take some time to repair.

SHROFF ARRESTED

SEQUEL TO POLICE LOSSES

AUDIT REPORT REMINDER

Coinciding almost with the audit disclosures regarding irregularities in Government accounts, the arrest has been effected of Ng Wing-tsoi, a Police Department shroff, against whom charges of embezzlement extending it is said to over $8,000, were alleged.

Ng, a Cantonese, was until January of this year, employed in the Accounts Office at Police Headquarters. His disappearance after the Chinese New Year holidays, focussed attention on the accounts, and the misappropriations were brought to light.

Attempts to locate the missing shroff have never been relaxed, and word was received from the Canton Police during the week-end that he had been arrested there.

The "wanted" man was brought back on the s.s. Sai On, and his formal arrest by the local Police followed on his appearance on the wharf late last night. The Telegraph learns that the man will be brought before the Magistrate to-morrow when he will be proceeded against.

NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN

MUNICIPAL ISSUES IN SHANGHAI

CHINESE DROP DISCUSSION

Shanghai, Oct. 4.

Two sets of highly important negotiations between the Chinese authorities and the Shanghai Municipal Council were broken off yesterday, namely, the questions of factory inspection and the supervision and control of the outside roads. These issues have been the leading Municipal problems for many months.

The Secretary-General of the Municipal Council, Mr. Sterling Fessenden, at a meeting of the Council yesterday afternoon, reported that he had again discussed the question of factory inspection with Mr. Yui, the Secretary-General of the Municipality of Greater Shanghai, who declared that as the Council maintained that it must have control of factory inspection in the Settlement, the Chinese authorities would not continue the negotiations.

Under the present circumstances, Mr. Yui continued, discussion of the outside roads question could not be resumed. That issue, too, had been on the verge of breakdown for some time, largely on account of Japanese demands concerning control of the outside roads in the Hongkew area.—Reuter.

KINGSFORD SMITH'S NEW FLIGHT

Miss Southern Cross Ready

London, Oct. 3.

Air Commodore Sir Charles Kingsford Smith will fly from Heston to Lympne Aerodrome near Folkestone this evening in his new all British monoplane, Miss Southern Cross, in readiness to leave at dawn to-morrow for Australia.

Special tanks have been fitted to the machine giving it a cruising range of about 1,800 miles.

Sir Charles says he is not out to break the record but he just wishes to reach Australia as quickly as possible.—British Wireless.

SENATE INQUIRY EVIDENCE

Washington, Oct. 3.

Sensational evidence was given during the Senate investigation of the operations of Messrs. Dillon, Read and Company, whose rise to prominence in New York bankers' circles provided one of the sensations of the last fifteen years.

It was revealed that the Company in organising an investment Trust in 1924, obtained for $100,000 certain stock which was later listed on the Stock Exchange at $336,000,000!

Mr. Clarence Dillon, the famous head of the firm, was the principal witness, and G.N. Wickersham, the former Attorney-General was mentioned as a prominent customer of the Company.—Reuter.

SHEFFIELD STEEL

Striking Improvement in Outlook

London, Oct. 3.

The Master Cutler of Sheffield, Dr. C. J. Walsh, stated to-day that since the beginning of the year, a gradual but definite improvement in the steel trade had taken place.

Sheffield, he said, is producing much more steel than in pre-war days and about 27,000 tons monthly more than last year. Sheffield's unemployed had decreased by ten thousand in the last 12 months.—British Wireless.

LINCOLNS MAN SENTENCED

FORTY-TWO DAYS' DETENTION

Sentence of 42 days' detention was passed on Pte. James Johnson, of the Lincoln, at a recent Court Martial at Shamshupo Camp when he was charged with failing to obey an order to attend a "defaulter's parade" and using "insubordinate language to a superior officer. The verdict has received confirmation by the G.O.C.

TWO SHOTS AT POINTBLANK RANGE

BULLET GRAZES CHEST: NOT SERIOUS

NAZI YOUTH ARRESTED

London, Oct. 3.

Both the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary this afternoon send messages to the Austrian Chancellor, Doctor Dollfuss, who to-day had a very remarkable escape from assassination.

He was leaving Parliament Building in Vienna when a young man approached him as though to present a petition.

The youth suddenly drew a revolver and fired two shots at Dr. Dollfuss from close range.

One bullet hit Dr. Dollfuss in the upper right arm and the other grazed his chest.

It was at first feared that the Chancellor had been gravely wounded but on examination at the hospital to which he was driven it was found that his injuries were not dangerous.

He was later allowed to leave for his home where he is receiving further treatment and from which he will continue to control State affairs.

The assailant, who was immediately arrested, is stated by the newspaper to be a young National Socialist, who had been banished from the Austrian army for his political activities.

PREMIER'S MESSAGE.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald telegraphed to Doctor Dollfuss as follows: "Much shocked to hear of the attack on Your Excellency. Please accept my warmest sympathy and my wishes for a speedy recovery."

Sir John Simon's message read: "Gravely distressed to hear of the infamous attempt on Your Excellency's life and much relieved to see the later report that your injuries are slight. Please accept my most sincere congratulations on your escape."—British Wireless.

FUR TRIMMED SLEEVES AND CHOIRBOY SURPLICE STRIKE NOVEL NOTE

By Rosette Hargrove

Paris.—Most of the interest in the winter collections centres in evening clothes. If a woman is not original in her choice and does not wear gowns that express her individuality, then she is certainly lacking in dress sense. Never before have there been so many styles to choose from.

If you are tall and slim you can slip into a siren's sheath that hugs the throat modestly in front but is disconcertingly denuded in the back and completed by just a suspicion of a pointed train. Or you can lose your heart to a gown of Greek persuasion which falls into classical folds about the feet. Or again, you can assume a quaint little old-fashioned air with one of those models with drooped shoulders, bustle, frills and posy of flowers, completed or not by a cameo.

Another thing, women will have to watch their waists more than ever if they want to wear the new clothes with the proper flourish. While the basque, which Paris has decreed as going to be one of the features of daytime clothes, does make the waist look inches smaller, still not the slightest suspicion of excess flesh in that region can get by. It is going to be the winter of the woman with the trim figure. She will have to cultivate a straight back and hold her head high in the approved manner of the 'nineties' in order to wear the bodices buttoning from throat to hem, the umbrella or straightly slim skirts and the basque. They are sufficiently modernized, however, to convey a free and easy grace that our mothers lacked.

Marcel Rochas introduces choir-boy surplices in plente gauze or silver paillettes on black tulle which, with the wide, bouffant sleeves, offer an unusual addition to the dinner dress. There are some fur-hemmed, pointed capes to accompany the formal evening gowns and amusing little fitted jackets in striped velvet or lame.

The princess line is stressed in Lanvin's collection, but more so in evening than in day dresses. Scarfs lend them a classical look, especially in the models where they are knotted at the back of the decollete and wound around the head in some ingenious manner. Silver lame and a very effective gold and silver bead embroidery on heavy tulle appear in the guise of berthes, dropped sleeves, pointed pockets and on the long sashes which Lanvin ties around the waist of her semi-formal dinner gowns.

This gold and silver bead trimming is used frequently on slim black afternoon models, as well as silver lame for boleros or straight jackets, with or without sleeves. Formal evening gowns in the inimitable Lanvin style are fashioned of taffetas, velvet or crêpe. They have trains and one or several deep and very full flounces at the hem. Deep twin flounces outline the armholes in cartwheel effect and almost meet at the back of the decollete.

There are a few luxuriously fur-trimmed evening capes but the newer style is the seven-eighths wrap in black velvet or cloth of silver, cut very full all around.

Newly all Lanvin's town ensembles are of the skirt and jumper variety, completed by a hip-length packet or a long coat. The jumpers have short basques and are belted and are usually in some vivid colour with frequent applications of lame. Sports coats are full and have important collars in fur or fabric, pockets and equally important sleeves. Skirts are circular or pleated, with the length unchanged for informal wear.

Afternoon ensembles have ankle-length dresses completed by fur capes which look rather like the school cape little French boys wear, with fullness at the neck simulating a hood. These are made of grey astrakhan, broadtail, or of the same fabric as the dress, fox trimmed, and reach well below the hips at the back.

Fur trimmings are centred at the shoulder tops and there is an extensive use of buttons and the metal heading as a decorative medium. Coral, orange, olive and a hard green and brown are used for daytime clothes, with black relieved by vivid touches of colour for formal wear.

Patou's contribution to fall styles created quite a stir in fashion circles. While his day clothes are simple, Parisian and, essentially youthful, his evening dresses offer a totally new line. Fullness, in the shape of panels softly gathered or pleated, is massed at the back, leaving the front perfectly plain and outlining the shape of the legs. Part little upstanding basque outline the hips in a down-at-the-back movement on some models. Bows are modernized and discreet bustle effects are placed at the back of the waistline to add interest. Decolletes are mostly on the rather wide twin-strap theme with generous exposure of back showing, or they have no backs at all. These new gowns must be worn over a long and fitted, but supple girder garment which models the figure without binding it in any way. The result is a line where ease of movement is allied to a very feminine and sensuous silhouette.

Huge bows of velvet brocaded taffetas in gay tartan or stripes trim the high necks of many of Patou's daytime clothes and there are some moderate fur basques. His new "wild huckleberry," which has all the advantages of black, but more depth and luminosity, is used in a number of interesting combinations in his daytime ensembles, the new colour figuring as dress and lining to black, grey and grog coats. The smart little afternoon dress for which Patou is noted are sober in line and where he uses the "wild huckleberry" there are clever contrasts of dull and shiny fabrics. Tunic skirts, slightly circular, but this at the back only, contribute an entirely new silhouette. Skirts are of medium length for day wear and the waistline is normal, as in most other houses.

Chanel's collection offers no great change of line but, on the other hand, a great luxuriance in fabrics (nearly all her own) and a wealth of trimming. Many of her day coats have boleros and seven-eighths sleeves of fur to which is attached a reasonably flared skirt of cloth or velvet. Blouses play a star part in her formal and informal suits, with the former they are often of heavy white satin, brocade or lame and with the latter in fancy velvets of the plaid, striped, checked or floral variety. There are a number of little jersey suits with flared skirts, practical sports ensembles composed of a comfortable top coat and dress of tweed or jersey, all in deep autumnal shades of green and brown which are very handsome.

Her evening line is distinctly of the "Lady Lou" type. Chanel uses a great deal of silver and gold tissue and combines it with organdy. One model, of gold cloth, has four superimposed flounces of organdy piped with the gold. The armholes also were outlined with organdy flounces. Black lace fashions a dress with a modernized erinoline skirt.

Hats accompany all of Chanel's models and complement her ensembles. They are all small and perched straight on the head, forming a straight line across the brow. Wings, aligrettes, paradisae and ospreys trim the seventy models she shows, which are made of felt, cloth, silk and straw, while several are fashioned of the whole body of the bird, complete with head.

SALESMAN SAM

Maybe the Cop Can Guess!

By Small

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Saturday afternoon Arlene received a telephone message from Sam who was coming to take her to dinner at a new seafood grill at 105th street. Since Mona's boarding house was on 100th street, Arlene invited Eve and Mona to ride home with her and Sam.

At 6 the four met outside Bixby's. Arlene insisted that Eve should ride with Sam while she shared the rumble seat with Mona. Eve entered into a lively discussion with Sam on the subject of advertising and was impressed by his shrewdness and vision. The ride to 100th street seemed short.

Mona led Eve to her room on the third floor of the green frame dwelling. It was an attractive room with a dormer containing three small windows. The woodwork had been painted orchid and there were yellow and orchid draperies at the windows to match the yellow and orchid bedspread. These colours were used in a woven rug on the floor.

The girls removed their wraps and went down stairs to dinner. Eve glanced about her as she entered the spacious dining room. Evidently a wall had been removed and two rooms thrown into one. Tables seemed to be everywhere with chatting groups about them. Most of the diners were women.

"But leave it to Mona!" thought Eve as she followed the other girl to a small table at which were seated an elderly woman and a young man. The young man flashed Mona a quick smile. She introduced Eve and then explained that Mr. Miller roomed in the neighbourhood but came here for his meals. Eve felt an uncomfortable third party as the conversation between the two grew animated. Later, when it was suggested that the three of them should go for a ride in Mr. Miller's car Eve pleaded a headache and asked to be dropped off at her home.

"But the ride will cure your headache!" Miller insisted. "Miss Allen and I often drive after dinner. Come on—the more the merrier, you know!"

Eve went for the ride. With Mona monopolizing the conversation there was little for Eve to do but gaze at the early November landscape as they whirled over the country roads. "I hate strange roads after dark," she said to herself. "I'm always running into a ditch." She wondered if it were not time to turn back just as they came to a brightly lighted place called Toby's Tavern.

"All out!" called Mona gaily. "Oh, are you going in there?" Eve asked in dismay.

"It will be fun!" answered Mona emphatically. "We'll have a 'rip and a bite and a dance or two."

"All right, I'll wait for you here in the car," Eve said as she stepped out to let Mona alight.

The other girl grew impatient. She took Eve's arm and pushed her toward the entrance. "Oh, come out of your chumcy!" she snapped.

Eve entered with them. After all, none of her friends were likely to see her here, she thought with relief. The place looked rather questionable to her. The lights were coloured and gave a dim effect. Little booths lined the walls and they entered one of them. There were benches and a table of rough wood, badly scarred with carved initials. Overhead hung great clusters of coloured autumn leaves, now curled and brittle. In the centre of the room a few couples danced to the music of a jazz band which came over the radio.

Eve was surprised when Mona and Miller ordered sandwiches and coffee. It had been such a short time since dinner. At first Eve refused to order anything but later she compromised and asked the waiter to bring her a pineapple ice.

"Will you excuse us while we dance?" Miller asked as he and Mona arose.

No sooner were they on the floor and out of sight than Theron Reece appeared in the entrance of the booth. Eve was startled.

"Don't be afraid of me," he said smoothly. "I won't tell your hubby I found you here. Expecting someone?"

"You know I'm not," she answered heatedly.

"Then you can't mind if I sit down," he responded. "You must be pretty lonely. Will you have a drink?" He pulled a flask from his hip pocket.

Eve felt trapped. It was a first-class little frame-up, she thought. She had not been aware that Reece was in town with Mona. Oh, why did they take such delight in making her uncomfortable? Was it because she made no effort to conceal her dislike for Reece? Now the incident of Mona's automobile accident came to Eve's mind. Arlene had always suspected that the man in the case was Reece. The injured man must have recovered, as no more had been heard of the affair. But what might this night's events lead to? Eve was more than sorry she had accepted Mona's invitation.

Her thoughts raced wildly, trying to decide what she could do. Mona and Miller seemed to be gone a long time. Only once had they danced past the booth where Eve sat. She began to fear they had left the place. Reece carried on a one-sided conversation.

"Do you know, I've always admired you?" he murmured, sliding a hand across the table. Eve instinctively drew back into a corner. Once more he poured liquor from his flask and offered her a drink. Eve's anger mounted.

"I like you that way," Reece said. "Little girl's got a temper, hasn't she?" He arose and started toward her side of the table. Before he could slide to the bench with her, Eve sprang to her feet and ran blindly from the booth. Out of the building, across the lighted area and toward a clump of trees, she made her way. Reece was following but Eve eluded him. She managed to avoid stumbling and slipped along parallel to the road through the darkness. She thought he must have turned back, for not long afterward an automobile approached slowly and she hid behind the trunk of a tree until it had passed.

Before long the machine returned and after a brief stop at Toby's Tavern slowly went in the opposite direction. Reece, no doubt, was looking for her. Eve decided to walk until she came to a trolley. Each time an automobile approached she hid until it had passed. She met no pedestrians on the lonely road. Her ankles were tired from walking on spiked heels and she felt sick with nervous fear. Still she trudged on for what seemed miles and miles. Eve had no idea how soon she would arrive at the Lake City limits nor what car line she might approach.

Finally she came to a farm house bearing a sign "Tourists Welcome." Eve rang the doorbell and when a motherly looking woman with graying hair answered she changed her mind about asking for directions but asked instead if she could stop for the night. She was shown to a spic and span room with pink rag rugs and a Jenny Lind bed. Then the farmer's wife turned to her and said, "I'll just send Pa out after your baggage. Did you want to drive your car into the barn for the night?"

When Eve told her she had no

car and no baggage but offered to pay her immediately, her hostess looked dubious, went below evidently to consult "Pa." She returned soon, smiling reassuringly. "It'll be all right, miss," she said. "Did you want to come and set with us a while in the living room or did you just want to go to bed?"

Later as Eve sank with relief into the deep featherbed she thought, "I suppose 'Pa' is lying awake with a shotgun thinking he's harbouring a suspicious character."

The next morning she found she had walked miles. In a direction away from Lake City. She hired the farmer to drive her home. When she reached there Mrs. Brooks appeared. "Oh, Mrs. Rader!" she said. "I couldn't help worrying about you. Your telephone was ringing most of the night."

It rang again shortly. Eve answered and heard Theron Reece's voice.

"You little fool!" he said. "Do you think I'd let any harm come to you? Can't you see that I'm mad about you! Why can't we be friends? Your husband isn't above a little flirtation when the occasion offers. Why not give him a taste of his own medicine?"

Abruptly Eve hung up the receiver. She was terrified. Terrified at the threat of danger in Reece's persistent attentions and terrified at his insinuations about Dick. Were they true—Reece's hints that Dick had been philandering? How was she to bear it if they were true?

NEW DANCE.—The dance experts in Germany make great efforts to invent new forms from modern dances. One of the novelties is the German "Achter" which is seen demonstrated above by some dancing-masters. (Pressons Illustrations Bureau).

DEMONSTRATION AT ST. LOUIS.—Our picture shows a general view as 40,000 marchers enrolled under President Roosevelt's re-employment drive banner, paraded in St. Louis, America, to demonstrate the scope of the programme. (Pressons Illustrations Bureau).

AFTER A HURRICANE.—Our picture shows a view from the principal thoroughfare of Norfolk in Virginia which bore the brunt of the hurricane that swept in from the Atlantic Ocean. Here is a car almost submerged in the water that buried the street feet deep. (Pressons Illustrations Bureau).

FROM THE AMERICAN HURRICANE.—One of the first pictures from the recent hurricane in America. Motorists in Washington narrowly escaped injury when these trees were uprooted by the high wind accompanied by driving rain. (Pressons Illustrations Bureau).

OPENING OF THE OYSTER SEASON.—Holiday-makers at Whitstable, England, landing a "hand" to haul in the dredges containing the "first-of-the-season" oysters. (Pressons Illustrations Bureau).

corde. Then they smiled. A smile that seemed to say, "Why should we pay oh?"

One night, after some of these talks, one of the older men or our party said, "Here on the Continent the seeds of trouble are more apparent than in 1914. I do not like the look of it." It is true. Even in the heart of France they speak in whispers of air war, of poison gas, of mysterious new inventions. They are afraid Germany is getting away with it.

What good garages and what good mechanics they have on "N 7"—though I suppose that is true of all French roads. And what good roads for driving on at steady cruising speed. Any motorist must make a better average on these tree-lined French highways which are so often ribbon direct and unbending for miles to the horizon.

I think of my old friend "N 7" one evening near Nevers, in the heart of France. It was late, and my first experience of driving by night on a country road in a foreign land. There was moonlight on the Loire below. There was mystery and loneliness. Were we on the right highway?

And then my headlights picked up the little red-headed sentinel. He seemed to nod at me "all right, sir. Here is old 'N 7'." Another kilometre on and up bobbed his comrade. And so on till the lights of Nevers appeared. Very comforting, very friendly, very intimate.

"N 7" must have thought I was a millionaire.

"Night Night, Everybody I've Had My Baby's Own Tablets."

It will not be long before she is asleep, that sound dreamless sleep of healthy childhood, for her mother knows the value of Baby's Own Tablets and administers them whenever there is need. The little one likes them too, for they are pleasant to take, so there is none of the fuss associated with giving doses of Castor Oil and other nauseating medicines.

Unbroken rest is essential to the health of young children and to attain this the digestive organs must be working properly. If baby is restless, cross, and wakeful as a result of constipation, indigestion, "wind," a little dose of Baby's Own Tablets is usually all that is necessary to set matters right, and speedily to bring sound peaceful slumber in a perfectly natural way.

The Tablets can also be used with good effect in cases of colic, cramp, to check feverishness, expel worms and ease the pains of teething.

Keep a vial of Baby's Own Tablets in the house and you will have a remedy always at hand to keep baby fit and well. They are the prescription of a physician who made a special study of children's maladies. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

BEAUTY, COMFORT and POWER will thrill you too!

Twenty-five to thirty miles on a gallon of petrol! Only four quarts of oil to the filling! Just one extra set of tyres in 3 years! Think what this means in reduced running costs for your car.

Yet economy is not the Beacon's only feature. You'll probably want a Beacon because it is so smart looking—so roomy and comfortable—because it skims the highways with the swiftness of the wind and the smoothness of a summer breeze.

Read these compelling Beacon features: 4-cylinder Red Seal engine; Winged Power; double cantilever rear springs; riding car construction; 4-wheel pneumatic brakes; 4 hydraulic shock absorbers; safety glass windshields; aviation type instruments; dual steering column; instant shift transmission; and many other features you would expect only in a high-priced car.

You'll like the Beacon. And you'll like the security that comes with knowing that 30 years' experience in building the world famous Red Seal engine stands in back of your car when you buy a Beacon.

JAPANESE TRADE COMPETITION

The severity of Japanese competition with Empire Industries even within the borders of the Empire hardly requires emphasis. We do not require to go farther afield than Hongkong to discover illustrations of how disastrous its effects can and are likely to be unless emergency measures are taken to enable the storm to be withstood. Protests will undoubtedly be raised in Tokyo. At the same time, it is more than likely that Japan will respect Britain's difficulties provided blind prejudice is not the controlling factor. The Simla negotiations, for instance, are a hopeful sign, showing that both sides are prepared to deal with realities. Consideration will be given there to the long-term effects of policy and possibly lead Britain to avoid action which will prejudice the future. What chiefly must be realised is that Japanese competition, though severe, cannot justly be described as unfair, except in perhaps one or two isolated instances. The recent report by the British Commercial Attaché in Tokyo gave the assurance that Japanese products were being sold abroad at a fair trade profit. It is pointed out that Japanese wages have always been lower than British, but hours of labour have improved. In 1916 the average working day was 16 hours. By 1926 it had fallen to just over 9½ hours. By 1930 it was down to almost 9 hours. The cheapness of Japanese goods in terms of other currencies can only be temporary. The suggestion that Japan will continue to pour cheap goods upon the world's markets cannot be sustained. The depreciation of the yen cannot legitimately be used as an argument in favour of shutting out Japanese goods. The yen went off gold only after the pound depreciated. The fact that the Japanese currency is at a discount proves that Japan has not been exporting abnormally. If she is exporting abnormally, the yen will rise to a level which will so raise the price of her exports that further expansion will be impossible. Nor should it be forgotten that to shut out Japanese goods from our home or Colonial markets because of Japan's depreciated currency just now would justify France in taking action against British goods entering her Colonial Empire.

NOTES OF THE DAY

BUS ROYALTIES

Bus service complaints are becoming more frequent. A clear pointer to one of the principal reasons is to be found in the Budget Estimates. Royalties to Government from the bus services are estimated to provide revenue to the extent of $240,000 in 1934. There are few commercial enterprises in this Colony of the same financial standing which could possibly bear supplementary overhead to this extent and (a) pay its way or (b) provide an efficient service. It is perfectly true that the Government is taking no more than was offered, but it is probably equally true to assert that the Government was bent upon taking all it could get. It seems bad business all round, with the regular passenger the primary sufferer.

CURFEW HOUR

The midnight curfew for local cabarets is embodied in the regulations just issued, a fact which suggests, we are afraid, that it must be regarded as permanent. Provision is made for an extension of hours on special occasions, but, thankful as proprietors may be for small mercies, the concession is small. It probably means an extra hour twice in a month at the most, after a good deal of trouble, scarcely worth the while. Hongkong's sainted reputation for dullness is thus to be preserved so far as authority can guarantee. Bright Young Things being unknown to Legislative Council, no word of protest is likely to be raised. At the same time, when it is felt that every other possible source of disquiet is sewn up so tightly, the removal of all liberty in hours of harmless amusement is not easy to appreciate.

TRADE AGREEMENT

Britain's trade agreement with Finland contains little to distinguish it from similar agreements with other countries in Northern Europe. Mr. Runciman's chief objective seems to have been to stimulate British coal exports and it is computed that the aggregate increase as the result of the negotiations of the last few months will be in the region of 5,000,000 tons. It seems to have been worth while, though it is a little unfortunate that the stress of the times should compel Britain to hold out any sort of ultimatum, commercial or otherwise. Balance of trade seems to have become a sort of fetish for economic faddists. And, of course, it is nonsense ultimately. Bilateral balances have no meaning at all in a world economy; lack of balance at one point enables a balance to be struck elsewhere. Artificial interference, in the long run, can only provide further barriers to a resumption of the normal movement of goods.

HOPEFUL SIGNS

The only justification is that it serves its immediate purpose, although that appears to be nothing more or less than economic nationalism, itself a deterrent to world recovery. We have reason to be thankful that ordinary economic forces are at last beginning to exert themselves and that League of Nations' experts are able to point to encouraging signs of better times ahead. If recovery was entirely dependent upon the wit of men and statesmen, the outlook would be sad.

GERMAN EDISONS

German state railways lose no opportunity of encouraging their employees not only to take greater interest in their work, but also to make any suggestions they may have for improvements in general work. A special fund has been set aside for the "Edisons of the Reichsbahn" to reward all useful ideas of their employees which may later lead to the patenting of profitable inventions or to better working conditions. In 1932, 125,000 marks (nearly $30,000) was allocated for inventions which had been applied in the technical branches, and for new ideas in matters concerning transport, organisation and general control. Patented machines for cleaning express trains which operate quickly and faster than those formerly in use, and a device for preventing fraud by placing worthless nickel coins in automatic machines were among the many inventions rewarded. Of the 445 inventors, forty-five came from the Berlin area, so that the capital was proportionately well represented.

ON THE MILLIONAIRES' HIGHWAY

By TOM CLARKE

IN the golden days of real millionaires it was called their highway.

It starts almost on the cobbled stones of Calais Quay and makes a nearly straight-through drive to the Riviera, 800 miles away to the south. At first it is known as Route Nationale 1, but after Paris (which you dodge via Versailles) it becomes Route Nationale 7; that is to say, as John Prieau puts it, "the finest road in all France." A proud road, a great road, an historic road. Not one of those elusive feminine roads which need watching all the time. A man's road. More than 1,000 sentinels keep him from wandering. They are these little "kilometre stones" of white, with their red caps. All the way to the Riviera these knowing fellows nod a friendly "N 7" at you. The millionaires' guard of honour.

No map is needed for "N 7"—that is no ordinary map. The one the millionaires use has little to do with the road itself or with topography. Nothing so dull. It is called the "Map of the Gourmets." It shows you not so much where to go motoring but where to go eating and drinking.

Old historic "N 7" may figure incidentally in the map—not for himself but for the keys he holds to blue trout and mellow wines and all the special table delicacies which are held in reverence in this valley or on that hill.

The millionaires of yore would say to the chauffeur of his multi-powered car, not "Where do we stop to-night?" but "What do we eat to-night?"

And the "Map of the Gourmets" would supply the answer.

But where are the millionaires to-day? Is France too expensive for them?

At Dover as I shipped my car I saw a notice, "Fill up here with petrol. It is cheaper than on the other side." The charge in France averaged about half-a-crown a gallon. Millionaires don't care to spend money at that rate.

Well down on the millionaires' highway my engine suffered a little breakdown. Now and then a car whizzed past. I put my head further into the bonnet and wondered at the lack of civility on this lonely foreign road of the millionaires. Then a big car pulled up. At last a millionaire, I thought. There was good cheer in the sight of his "G.B." plate.

I looked up into the face of a man I had met at lunch at the Savoy, London, a week or two previously—Gilbert Frankau, the famous novelist, whom every woman reads.

"What are you doing here?"

"As for me," I said, "I'm in search of millionaires—this is their highway, isn't it?—and now I suppose I've found one."

"No, you are wrong," he laughed, "just a hard-working storyteller off for a prow round the Continent after ten months hard work."

"Writing a book?"

"I shall not put pen to paper for two months. This is my holiday."

day—France, Italy, Dalmatian Coast, Austria. Don't you think I've earned it? Now can I help you with your car trouble?"

I had another forced stoppage further down south. This time a German, also in trouble nearby, strolled over and asked me to share his bottle of wine. He confessed, too, that he was not a millionaire.

In the hotels, too, they bemoaned the absence of millionaires.

Yet there were lots of other adventures on the road. Here a couple of young women from England, school-teachers, I surmised, trundling along in their baby 2-seater and waving a hand at us as we passed and repassed.

Here a noisy sports car, backing into its "G.B." plate and containing no doubt the two Oxford undergraduates who (I heard later) ran out of cash and slept under haystacks till they could raise a remittance from home.

Still further south I ran into a director of a Bond-street store on the way with his wife to Nice. He denied he was a millionaire.

A little further on, taking a picnic lunch on a river bank, a father and daughter with a little green car. From somewhere like Surbiton, I guessed.

Once a car stopped near us with its baggage labelled as I have never seen baggage labelled before. All the hotel labels in Europe were plastered on.

"Must be millionaires," said someone.

"No," replied our wise man, "that's too ostentatious for any millionaire."

One car passed us with a "C.D." identification plate. We got out our A.A. book to solve the mystery. "Corps Diplomatique." Very grand to be an ambassador, we thought, with such an exclusive plate. There were a large number of "Ts" (Italy)—the nearest approach to anything millionaireish. There is no doubt these Italians have their thumbs up. There was something confident and ascendant—even ostentatious—about their cars, their speedy driving and their forceful road manners.

We stopped for refreshment at a wayside cafe. It cost us 6d. for a glass of red wine of the State for five of us. The buxom housewife revelled in a chat. British soldiers had been encamped nearby during the war. She was only 16 then. She remembered our soldiers showing her how to fry bacon and eggs because they got so tired of her mother's eternal omelettes.

Sometimes, right in the heart of France, remote from Paris and the politicians, we talked with peasants and workmen about Germany and America and things like that. Of Germany they would say, with typical French realism, "Yes, Hitler is very good for Germany, no doubt, but very bad for France. So we are ready—we do not want more fighting, but we must be ready."

Of America! They showed us a Paris paper with a picture of the magnificent new American Embassy in the Place de la Con-

The Very Idea!
OUR OPERATION

By Ed. "Kibitzer" Kelly

WE are all at sea to-day and have spent most of the time indignantly refusing to have our breath smelt.

What we mean to say is that we are all askew. We are not the man we were since Saturday when we were maltreated by a specialist.

He operated on our nose, which we have rightly considered the outstanding feature of our face and played such a tune on that organ that we are always being taken for an American now—except of course when we are not being taken to quod.

You see we can't go straight now because our nose doesn't indicate the way we ought to go and our difficulties are increased because our eyes have always been at cross purposes.

It all began with a yawn in front of a medical friend (sic and so on) who was talking to us. He stopped in the middle of trying to pass one of our jokes on to us and darted a finger into our mouth.

When the choking fit had passed we saw that he was already making out a prescription.

"Waffor?" we gurgled.

"Operation!" he said briefly. "Your nose is all to pieces."

We took a look at the dear old face in a mirror. The nose was standing erect in its usual place, quivering a little at the end where a piece points upward to the way we ought to go. At least where we would be going if we were a missionary or a steeplojack.

The doctor without warning dealt us a sharp blow on the nose with a handy paper weight.

"You see," said the doctor, "it hurt."

It did.

We were standing outside the hotel from which we had just been expelled for using bad language and we still holding the proboscis in both hands.

We felt that matters were getting out of our control. The nose was swelling so much it would soon be too heavy for us and meanwhile the doc was running an affectionate finger along his penknife.

We gave in.

Stretched out on the surgical slab like a tender doe we felt our courage oozing steadily from us.

"We are too young to die, Doc," we murmured dreamily. "There are so many things we wanted to do."

The butcher squeezed our nose firmly. The nurse squeezed our hand tenderly.

"Courage, my boy," he boomed. "It will not be long."

We dozed off with a vision in our mind of the doctor approaching us with a pair of pliers and a corkscrew.

It seemed hours later when we woke to find the nurse and the doctor engaged in a keen game of draughts.

"How are we, Doc?" we shouted. Operating made easy, we thought, stretching out a careful feeler for the nose.

The Doc removed a king from the board and took his piers out of his pocket.

"We haven't started yet," he announced. "You fainted."

DEAN INGE CRITICISES MODERN NOVELS

No Nobility About Their Characters

Dean Inge, speaking at St. Mary's, Wootton, Oxford, where he spent his holiday, criticised the tone of the modern novel.

"National character," he said, "is reflected pretty accurately in its imaginative literature. It seems to me that most of our popular writers give us a very gray world, painting sordid vice and mean conduct as nothing out of the ordinary. There is no nobility about any of their characters. The whole effect gives us a much poorer picture of life than most of us have seen."

"The effect of much of the present day literature is to make young readers hold themselves and others cheap—one of the worst disservices imaginable. Human nature is capable of rising to great heights and sinking to profound depths, but it is not truly presented in drab colours."

"Wasting my life on arithmetic when I was meant to be a cow boy."

FIRST BLOOD TO GIANTS

IN WORLD SERIES FINE PITCHING BY HUBBELL

OTT HOMERS IN 1ST INNS.

New York, Oct. 3. Before a crowd of 48,000 and in perfect weather, the World Series, in which New York Giants and Washington Senators are the contestants, started at the Polo Grounds today.

After a nine innings match, the Giants drew first blood by winning four runs to two.

There was a sensational start when Ott, the New York hitter, banged a home run in the first innings. Another two were added in the third innings.

The Senators made their first reply in the fourth innings and added a second run in the ninth.

HUBBELL'S PITCHING.

Hubbell pitched brilliantly for the Giants, fanning ten in the first seven innings.

Moore, Critz, Terry and Ott scored for the Giants and Myer and Manush for the Senators.

The final score read:

New York..... R. H. E.
Washington..... 2 5 3

The score by innings was:

New York:—2020000000

Washington:—000100001

Hubbell as pitcher and Mancuso as catcher formed the Giants' battery and the Senators called on W. Stewart, J. Russell and Al Thompson for pitching, whilst Sewell caught.—Reuter.

EXPERIMENTAL TEAM

FOR GOVERNOR'S CUP

SELECTION OF F.A. XI

Only Pardoe and Ridley of last year's team have found places in the F.A. eleven for the Governor's Cup next Tuesday, although Lieut. Hocquard, who last season was picked, but could not turn out, has again been selected.

The team appears to be something in the nature of an experiment, and it is possible that the selectors are making use of the first representative match of the season as a feeler for Interport nominees.

The team is quite a good one, boasting a first rate half back line and a defence which should be equal to the occasion. There seems to be no reason why the F.A. should not succeed in retaining the Governor's Cup which they won last season.

Players who will make their debut in local representative football are Cord, McQuire, Harris, Gomes, and Elliott.

The team is:
Cord (Kowloon);
Allan (R.A.);
S. Strange (Club) capt.;
Perkins (Navy);
Pardoe (R.A.);
McQuire (Navy);
L. Harris (S.W.B.);
Gomes (Recroto);
Elliott (Kowloon);
Ridley (Lincolns);
Lt. Hocquard (Lincolns).
Reserves:—Mullane (S.W.B.), West (Navy), Bliss (Kowloon), Figueroa (Recroto), A. Duncan (Club), Howe (Club), Paymstr. Smith (Navy), Baldry (Lincolns), and Blake (Kowloon).

FRIENDLY HOCKEY.

Y.M.C.A. Beat St. Andrew's Exponents.

In a fairly fast hockey match yesterday the Y.M.C.A. first eleven defeated the St. Andrew's Club by two goals to nil.

G. P. Lammert scored for the Y.M.C.A. in the first half. Half time saw the Y.M.C.A. leading by a goal to nil.

After the breather Lammert again scored, making the game safe for the Y.M.C.A.

Owing to the falling light the match was played 25 minutes each way instead of the usual time.

The match hockey match between the R.A.M.C. and Royal Corps of Signals will be played on the U.S.B.C. ground to-day at 4.45 p.m.

Umpires:—J. T. K. Gilchrist and P. J. Naidu.

TO-DAY'S BOWLS

VICTORIA AND SHANGHAI

CIVIL SERVICE GREEN

Although frequent inspections were made of the green, it was found impossible to play the lawn bowls match yesterday at the Civil Service Club between the Shanghai Interport team and Victoria.

The overnight and morning rains had thoroughly soaked the greens, and although overhead conditions somewhat cleared during the afternoon, it was obvious that the green was much too heavy to permit of bowls.

As a result it has been found necessary to postpone to-day's match at the Club de Recreio so that yesterday's fixture can be played off.

At the time of writing, the heavy skies indicate more rain, but every effort will be made to play the match this afternoon at the Civil Service, starting at 3 p.m.

The rinks will remain unaltered and will be:

OLD INTERPORTER IN HONGKONG.

J. E. HARVEY, SHANGHAI LAWN BOWLS PLAYER.

Among those who were present at the Civil Service Cricket Club yesterday for the lawn bowls match between Shanghai and Victoria, were J.E. Harvey, who played at No. 2 in the Interport match against Hongkong in 1927. He is on his way back to Shanghai from Home leave, arriving in the Colony yesterday morning. He was disappointed in not seeing his colleagues in action.

CLUBHOUSE CHATTER BY "PILGRIM"

FULHAM are a club to be reckoned with. The team is good both at home and away, and Mr. Dean the manager has made up his mind to get into a higher circle.

AND then we have Manchester United who told us this is to be their year for success. But if this is to be the case there must be no "monkeying."

GOALS count, and Mr. Gibson's men must cut out the fancy stuff if promotion is hoped for.

MUCH as I should like to see Bury figure prominently in the promotion fight, I cannot accept the view that the team is strong enough to stand eight months' battling, and indeed they are already faltering.

THIS also applies to Bradford City, in my opinion. The Valley Parade side disappointed greatly last season. Away from home they were completely lacking in "life," and after December, when they were well placed, the results they gave us were hard to understand.

NOTTINGHAM Forest, under the able guidance of ex-referee, Noel Watson, just missed promotion last time, as the club had rather too much leeway to make up after Christmas.

I can see them doing the same this season. The team is practically the same, the only "capture" being Harry Race, the former Liverpool and Manchester City forward.

AT the annual meeting of the football players and trainers' union in Manchester it was announced that 400 new members had been secured during the past season, making a total of 1,024. Players from Arsenal, Everton, Sunderland and both Sheffield clubs still refused to join.

DURING the past season 54,000 had been paid in compensation and in the last five years the compensation payments had amounted to £23,000.

DEATH OF GREAT BOXER

Tragedy of Young Stribling

FIRST TO DOWN CARNERA

Macon, Georgia, Oct. 3. Young Stribling, probably one of the finest scientific heavyweight boxers of the past 20 years, died here this morning at 6 o'clock.

His death is the result of an accident whilst driving a motor cycle and crashing into an automobile. As a result of the accident Young Stribling's foot had to be amputated and he suffered grave internal injuries, as well as a badly fractured hip.—Reuter.

The passing in the prime of life of the "Peach of Georgia" has bereft the sporting public of one of the most able heavyweights of the day.

AMONG THE ELITE.

Stribling was a graduate of the University of Georgia and ranked among the elite of the profession. He was as popular among women by reason of his good looks as he was among men for his fame and determined fighting.

Only recently he defeated Maxie Rosenbloom, light weight world champion of the world, and took a points decision from Don McCorkindale in the South African's own country, thus inaugurating a comeback which would have been even more successful but for his untimely death.

It was Stribling who revealed the vulnerability of the gigantic Carnera when the Italian made his debut in London and lost to the American on a foul. After nonplussing his man with speedy ringwork, Stribling loosed a body blow that floored the Ambling Alp for the first time in his career among the highlights of the game. Carnera's rage led to his committing a foul and raising a storm of discussion on the advisability of excluding boxer "Dreadnought" to a class of their own.

The Italian had his revenge at the next meeting when the "Peach" infringed with a low delivery, which lost him the bout.

ON TOP OF HIS FORM.

Stribling was on top of his form in the days when Great Britain was seeking a man to regain her laurels in the pugilistic world. He smashed the hopes of the Home country by putting Phil Scott into oblivion in the opening seconds and then added to his bag George Cook the Australian, Paulino Uzcudun the Herculean axewielder, and clever Tommy Loughran.

Latterly Stribling had fallen into the ways of contemporary heavies and his match with McCorkindale was spoiled by continually clinches and holding, both men being responsible. The return match with the South African did not transpire owing to an injury which rendered Stribling unfit, but he was regaining form and had already booked a fight with Tommy Loughran.

Throughout his boxing career, the "Peach's" affairs were always in the hands of his father, Pa Stribling, as he was universally known, and the combination was a great success.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

HATRED IS THE MADNESS OF THE HEART.—Byron.

The Rev. Father Joseph A. Sweeney, of the Maryknoll Fathers in Ossining, N.Y., is at present on a visit to Hongkong. It is understood that Father Sweeney intends to found a leper colony in South China to be maintained by U. S. Catholics.

One case of diphtheria, ten cases of typhoid with one death (one imported), five cases of meningitis with four deaths, one imported case of human rabies with one death, and fifty deaths from tuberculosis, were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Monday one case of typhoid was also reported.

M.M.S. Berwick arrived here this morning shortly after 9.30 from Tsingtao and tied up at No. 6 Buoy.

The local health return for last week includes one fatal imported case of human rabies, in the Victoria (city) district.

The marriage is announced to take place shortly of Mr. Pun Fung-chow, the well-known local banker and philanthropist who is at present the chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital Committee, to Miss Wai Hang-sien, the eldest daughter of Mr. Wai Shui-pak, another local wealthy merchant and philanthropist who is also serving the Tung Wah Hospital Committee.

SEVERE TEST FOR THE LEAGUE LEADERS

ARSENAL ALSO LIKELY TO BE "UP AGAINST IT"

"PILGRIM" DISCUSSES PROSPECTS

Tottenham have a sporting chance of regaining their position in the League on Saturday when Pompey, the present leaders, will be hard put to it to call the one point from Leicester which will leave them on top.

Huddersfield will have a trying day at Villa Park but I doubt if Birmingham, who visit the Blues at the Bescall Ground, will be able to seize the opportunity to jump a place.

Derby are due for a recovery I think, though an present showing their home record is not too bright.

Their engagement at Blackburn will be rather in the nature of a test for the Arsenal and I am inclined to think that they will not have the better of the exchange.

The position in the Second Division is very similar but I do not think Bolton will be disposed this week.

The local derby on the Forest ground will draw its usual large crowd and over-enthusiasm on the part of the home side will probably contribute to their rivals' efforts.

By unexpectedly drawing with Bradford at the Midland venue, West Ham again confounded the critics.

I think the Wolves, Hammers, and Walsall are the three most undependable teams in the League although their occasional brilliant exploits make them a delight from the spectator's point of view.

A hot contest for points marks every match in which the crack clubs of the Southern Section take part and I expect their positions will be severely changed at the completion of this weekend's programme.

It is curious that although among the clubs of the lower divisions there are many more goals scored yet quite a number preserve clean home records still.

The lack of Rotherham and Grimsby in the mid and in seven matches have collected only one point. They have scored four times and have 17 against them.

Motherwell will receive a serious challenge when they journey to Kilmarnock and they will do well to retain their remarkable record. In 11 games they have not dropped a single point and the six goals against them is the lowest, with one exception, in the English and Scottish Leagues.

Their scoring propensities are not so outstanding and it would appear that no indomitable defence is their great asset.

Knows Where The Goal Is

Tottenham this year are well satisfied with the form of McCormick, their outside right. Not only does he play the usual role of winger with skill, but he knows how to score goals. He scored all three goals against Leicester in a recent match.

UPS AND DOWNS OF CARDIFF

OLD HANDS AT CRYSTAL PALACE GIVE PLACE TO YOUTH

Cardiff City have had more "ups and downs" than any side in the League since the war, and although many believed that rock bottom had been reached last season one cannot see much hope of an improvement.

The morale of the city became a promotion side even in the Third Division Cardiff has a larger population of 15,000. During the last few seasons the average attendance has been only 1,000.

The moral is obvious, but the directors are frank enough to admit that as much as they would like to build up a new side they have not got the money to do it. Therefore Mr. David Wilson, the new manager, who has taken over the office held for many years by Mr. Fred Stewart, is a hand-picked man.

He was told at the start that he could not spend a penny in transfer fees. But Cardiff have opened the new campaign with last year's side.

The only notable additions were Calder, a back from Glasgow Rangers, and Hutchinson, said to be a scheming inside forward, who, with Leslie Jones and Maidment, should be able to make the right sort of openings for Henderson.

The forwards took all right, but the half-backs will need strengthening.

ing. This key position is very inadequate at the moment.

Crystal Palace

Although they finished fifth in the Southern Section of the Third Division last season, Crystal Palace were by no means satisfied with the general form of the team. It was unreliable, brilliant at times and weak occasionally, and never once did they enter the running for promotion.

This year a change is already to be seen. Several of the older players have gone, making room for no fewer than 11 newcomers of youth and experience. With their help, and granted a reasonable immunity from injury, the Palace should have little difficulty in showing an improvement on last year.

There is an all-round excellence in the Palace side that tends for confidence. At home they should gain the greater part of the points at stake, and although they may lack a little aggressiveness away on their opponents' grounds they will not fall far short of promotion.

MORE BAD LUCK
MOLLISON'S FAIL TO LEAVE GROUND
Toronto, Oct. 3.
James and Amy Mollison, world-famous British fliers, found their attempts at a record-breaking distance flight dogged by bad luck again to-day when their plane, Seafarer II, failed to take off from the flying field at Wasaga Beach, near Collingwood, Ontario.
Recently, at the completion of a westward Atlantic crossing, the Mollisons were injured when their plane crashed just outside New York. This mishap spoiled their plan to return together across the Atlantic and attempt to reach Baghdad.
At present they are bound for Baghdad when, and if, they are able to rise with their 600 gallons of special English petrol.
They taxied, along the beach for over half a mile, but each time failed to lift the Seafarer off the ground. The engine stalled at the end of the first run. The second run was equally unsuccessful. They could not rise an inch.

BIG NAVY LEADER

MR. SWANSON NOW IN HAWAII

MANY RUMOURS

Honolulu, Oct. 1.
A strong navy is the best assurance of peace, said Mr. Claude Swanson on his arrival in Hawaii for an inspection of the U.S. naval establishment.

Swanson, parried questions of reporters and said his visit was merely a routine inspection, and had no special significance. Asked about naval rivalries between Japan and the United States, Swanson said that the two nations were friendly and that the so-called rivalries were of the nature of a misnomer, since both countries were working within already defined treaty limits.

GUNBOATS FOR YANGTZE.

The United States has no special plans with respect to Asiatic waters, he said, adding that the new naval construction, however, contemplated two new gunboats for the Yangtze river.

Despite the casualty with which Swanson carried himself, his arrival has intensified interest throughout the world in the various Pacific problems as represented by the new naval policy, the economic, political and naval status of Hawaii, the status of the Philippines, and naval disarmament. The ostensible purpose of the Navy Secretary's visit to Hawaii at this time is merely a routine inspection of United States naval establishments in this naval outpost in the Pacific. His tour is part of a general inspection trip including similar visits to the United States naval station at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; the Panama Canal Zone; Hawaiian naval establishments; Bremerton Navy Yard, Washington, and naval establishments at San Francisco and San Pedro, California.

SUSPICIONS:

Popular and international interest, however, cannot be confined to the routine inspection phases of Secretary Swanson's tour. Whether the Roosevelt administration admits it or not, the coincidence of the Navy Secretary's visit here and the acute interest in all problems in the Pacific can not be dispelled from the public mind.

Of great importance to residents of the United States, and the world generally, is the bearing which the secretary's visit to Hawaii will have on the strengthening of the United States' naval defence in the islands. The "new naval policy" announced by Mr. Swanson some time ago declared for such strengthening of these defences.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

Any construction work in this regard is considered sure to have repercussions from Japan, where the new United States naval policy has already drawn severe critical fire.

Japan is now the world's biggest exporter of cotton piece goods.

Statistics for eight months, from January to August this year, show that Japan exported 1,392,000,000 square yards of cotton cloth; which is 6,000,000 square yards more than Britain exported over the same period. — Reuter.

nearly 37 new ships, a navy policy calling for a United States navy of full treaty strength by 1936, and a continuance of the policy of maintaining the bulk of the United States navy in Pacific waters, improvements and enlargement of the United States naval establishments in Hawaii are anticipated. It is believed the Secretary of the Navy is in the islands to obtain first-hand knowledge of conditions here with those ends in view.

FIGHT SEQUEL

EUROPEAN IN HOSPITAL

AFRICAN DIES OF INJURIES

EARLY MORNING FRACAS

A European is lying at the Government Civil Hospital following a fight at Wanchai in the early hours of this morning.

It is alleged that he came into conflict with an African and that as the result of the fight which ensued, the African died at the G.C.H. at noon to-day.

The European's name is given as Mr. D. C. Phillips, and he is said to be the second engineer of the s.s. Wing On.

MOTOR-DRIVER

The African, who was a motor-car driver, resided at No. 12, Burrow Street, third floor, was named Suleif Hamelly.

AUTOPSY TO-DAY

A post-mortem examination is being conducted by Dr. J. E. Dovey this afternoon.

Both men were injured in the brawl which occurred at about 1.30 a.m. and both were conveyed to hospital afterwards. Mr. Phillips was suffering from facial injuries.

BIG LOCAL PROPERTY DEAL

OVER A MILLION CHANGES HANDS

VALUABLE SITE IN QUEEN'S ROAD

The Telegraph learns that one of the largest City property deals of recent times, apart from Government's sale of the City site, was negotiated yesterday.

Well over a million dollars will change hands as the result of the transaction.

The property concerned is in Queen's Road Central, a block of business premises between St. Francis Hotel and the Hongkong Hotel. The block in the old days was known as Marine House, but the name has dropped into disuse.

The purchasers were the Land Investment Company, and the vendors Messrs. Linstead and Davis on behalf of the Belliss Estate, and it is understood that the purchase price was $1,105,000.

TO BE DEMOLISHED

Nos. 15, 17, 17a and 19, Queen's Road Central are involved in the sale, the area occupied being approximately 20,000 square feet, with a frontage to Queen's Road of 140 feet. The price works out roughly at $55 a square foot.

It will be some months before the transfer is complete and we are informed that no plans for developing the site have yet been formulated. It is, however, intimated that the present premises will be pulled down.

It is understood that the sale was effected through the agency Messrs. Croucher and Co.

EUROPE SAVED A MAJOR CATASTROPHE

AUSTRIAN LEADER'S ESCAPE

DENTIST'S STEPSON GIVES REASON FOR OUTRAGE

London, Oct. 4.

The general comment on the attempted assassination of the Austrian Chancellor is that Europe has escaped a major catastrophe, for the consequences of a fatal attempt on Dr. Dollfuss' life on the European situation would have been incalculably grave.

Dr. Dollfuss' assailant was named Bertil, and it is revealed that he is the stepson of the dentist to the late Emperor Franz Josef.

His weapon, which was a tiny mother-of-pearl revolver for a lady's handbag, was loaded only in two chambers.

The Vienna police do not believe he is a Nazi. Bertil, when questioned at the station, declared that he desired to draw attention to the "only man capable of leading Austria," but he declines to give his hero's name.—Reuter.

Both the Prime Minister and the Foreign Secretary this afternoon send messages to the Austrian Chancellor, Doctor Dollfuss, who to-day had a very remarkable escape from assassination.

He was leaving Parliament Building in Vienna when a young man approached him as though to present a petition.

The youth suddenly drew a revolver and fired two shots at Dr. Dollfuss from close range.

One bullet hit Dr. Dollfuss in the upper right arm and the other grazed his chest.

It was at first feared that the Chancellor had been gravely wounded but on examination at the hospital to which he was driven it was found that his injuries were not dangerous.

He was later allowed to leave for his home where he is receiving further treatment and from which he will continue to control State affairs.

The assailant, who was immediately arrested, is stated by the newspapers to be a young National Socialist, who had been dismissed from the Austrian army for his political activities.

PREMIER'S MESSAGE

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's reply graphed to Doctor Dollfuss as follows: "Much shocked to hear of the attack on Your Excellency. Please accept my warmest sympathy and my wishes for a speedy recovery."

Sir John Simon's message read: "Greatly distressed to hear of the infamous attempt on Your Excellency's life and much relieved to see the later report that your injuries are slight. Please accept my most sincere congratulations on your escape."—British Wireless.

UNDER-CARRIAGE DAMAGED

Toronto, Oct. 4.

At their third attempt to take off in their new plane, Seafarer Second, Mr. and Mrs. James Mollison plunged on to the air field at Wasaga Beach, Collingwood, after rising five feet in the air.

The accident, which was due to a strong cross-wind, twisted the under-carriage, and it is improbable that the Mollisons will be able to make a further attempt today, as the damage will doubtless take some time to repair.

KINGSFORD SMITH OFF

NEW FLIGHT TO AUSTRALIA

EXPECTED TO MAKE FAST TIME

London, Oct. 3.

Air Commodore Sir Charles Kingsford Smith will fly from Heston to Lympne Aerodrome near Folkestone this evening in his new all-British monoplane, Miss Southern Cross, in readiness to leave at dawn to-morrow for Australia.

Special tanks have been fitted to the machine giving it a cruising range of about 1,800 miles.

Sir Charles says he is not out to break the record but he just wishes to reach Australia as quickly as possible.—British Wireless.

OFF FOR BRINDISI

London, Oct. 4.

Air Commodore Kingsford Smith left Lympne at 5.30 a.m. on his flight to Australia.

He insists that he has no intention of attacking Scott's record, though his new silver and blue monoplane is faster than those hitherto used on this route and has a longer range.

He may, therefore, shorten the journey by some hours.

The machine is capable of covering 1,800 miles without refuelling. He is making Brindisi his first stop, and afterwards will fly to Bagdad, Karachi, Calcutta, Rangoon and the Dutch East Indies.—Reuter.

BARONET GREEN-GROCER DIES SUDDENLY

WAR DEBT PUZZLE

DISCUSSION MAY BE DELAYED

AMERICAN POLICY UNDEFINED

Washington, Oct. 4.

It is now suggested that the Anglo-American war debt negotiations will not begin until next week.

It has been suggested for some time past that there is a distinct link between the war debts and the proposals for stabilising the dollar and that there is a close relationship between the United States monetary policy and the negotiations now being held in London. Mr. Acheson's admission that he is awaiting President Roosevelt's intimation of what policy, as far as the war debt is concerned, the United States delegation should follow.

TREASURY WATCHFUL

In the meantime, the Treasury appears to be very keenly watching for a sign of the attitude the British Mission is likely to adopt concerning the stabilisation of the pound and the dollar for it is pointed out that no new debt settlement will possess really unless the two currencies are related and maintained at an agreed level.

President Roosevelt, however, remains enigmatic.

While some credit him with seeking currency stabilisation for its own sake and not as a sine qua non to debt revision, others deny that he favours a definite monetary policy, preferring to couple debt reduction with British trade concessions.—Reuter.

DEATH OF EARL OF RANFURLY

FORMER GOVERNOR OF NEW ZEALAND

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Oct. 3.

The death is announced of Uchter John Mark Knox, 57th Earl of Ranfurly, at the age of 77. Lord Ranfurly was Lord-in-Waiting to Queen Victoria 1895 to 1897, and from that date until 1904 was Governor and Commander-in-Chief of New Zealand.

He was created G.C.M.G., in 1901, having already been raised to K.C.M.G., in 1897. In 1905 he was made a Privy Councillor for Ireland.

He married the Hon. Constance Elizabeth Caulfield in 1890, and she passed away last year.

The Earl of Ranfurly is succeeded by Viscount Northland.

REFUSED TO PAY RICKSHA FARE

EUROPEAN HAS BAIL ESTREATED

The name of Mr. A. E. Greenaway was called as defendant at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court before Mr. Butters this morning in a case in which he was charged with refusing to pay a rickshaw coolie 20 cents, being legal fare for a journey between Tsimshatsui and Mongkok.

Defendant was not in Court and his bail of $10 was estreated. It was alleged that defendant hired the rickshaw near the Star Ferry, and ordered the coolie to take him to Mongkok. On arrival at his destination, he refused to pay the fare.

His Worship ordered the rickshaw coolie to be paid 20 cents from the Poor Box.

GREAT WALL AREA INVADED

BY MANCHUKUO FORCE

PEKING ALARM

Peiping, Oct. 4.

Mulanpu Pass on the Great Wall has been occupied by Manchukuo troops belonging to the command of Chang Hai-peng, the Jehol Governor, according to reports reaching Peiping.

The news has caused consternation in Peiping.

It seems that the occupation took place on September 29 on the pretext that it was necessary to protect the Manchukuo Imperial Tombs in the vicinity of the Pass.

The special police appointed by Peiping have withdrawn from Mulanpu to Tsinan, where the tombs are located.—Reuter.

PEIPING AREA FIGHTING

Peiping, Oct. 4.

Fang Chen-wu and Chi Hung-chang are again attempting to break through the cordon of Government troops by striking heavy blows at supposed vulnerable points. Their attack on Changping on Monday night was repulsed but they renewed the attack with more vigour yesterday. However, the drive was again spent by nightfall.

It appears that the rebels hope to force their way across the Peiping-Suiyuan Railway into the Peiping-Hankow Railway zone where they expect to maintain themselves on local revenues.—Central News Agency.

Refugees arriving at Tientsin from Changli declare that the bandits who occupied Peitaiho Beach yesterday belong to the so-called Far Eastern Allied Army.

The leader of the gang, it is said, has seized control of the district and has appointed himself Director of Public Safety.—Reuter.

SIR GEORGE BEAUMONT

DIRECT DESCENDANT OF LOUIS VIII

SENSATION IN SPRING

(Our Own Correspondent).

London, Oct. 4.

Sir George Beaumont, the prominent Leicesterfield landowner, who caused a sensation in the Spring by turning green-grocer and selling his own vegetable produce, has passed away suddenly at the age of 82.

He was a military officer and a baronet, and a direct descendant of Louis VIII of France, owner of a big estate, but he became famous as the farmer who sold his own produce to the public.

His father, the tenth baronet, was an artillery officer, while his mother also had a military link, being a daughter of Maj. Gen. G. A. (General of the Royal Engineers).

DESCENDED FROM LOUIS

Through his father he was descended in a direct line from the French King Louis VIII (1223-1230).

The Beaumonts went to England in the course of the next two centuries and by the time of Edward IV were settled on the estate of Cole Orton, in Leicestershire, which is still the family seat. Among the distinguished members of the family were Sir John, the 16th century poet and his brother, Francis, the dramatist.

The baronetcy was created in 1861.

Sir George Beaumont joined the King's Royal Rifle Corps and was a Lieutenant when in 1914 his father died, and he succeeded to the title and estates of 4,000 acres, including Cole Orton Hall.

WOUNDED IN FRANCE

In the world war, he fought in France throughout the conflict with the exception of a period in hospital due to a wound received in 1916. He reached the rank of Major.

When he returned to Cole Orton he took up the study of agriculture and became a practical farmer, selling much of his produce.

In passing through a neighbouring village early this year, he saw that lettuce which had been bought from him at a penny each were being sold at 8d.

GREENGROCER!

Impressed by the fact that the public was gaining nothing from the low prices that he was accepting, he decided to sell direct to the consumers. He bought a motor van and advertised that from April 11th, it would be driven through the neighbouring towns and villages with a load of produce. Driving the van himself on the first day, he was sold out long before he had completed the advertised round. In addition to selling his vegetables, fruit and flowers he gave advice to his customers on the best way of growing them.—Our Own Correspondent.

Panama, Oct. 3.

President Arria has left for Washington to see President Roosevelt regarding certain difficulties regarding Panama which she has suffered since the termination of the Tait Agreement in 1924.

Questions at issue include the non-payment of rates and taxes by the American-owned Panama Railway and the competition of the canal authorities with Panama merchants.—Reuter.

FUR TRIMMED SLEEVES AND CHOIRBOY SURPLICE STRIKE NOVEL NOTE.

By Rosette Hargrove

Paris.—Most of the interest in the winter collections centres in evening clothes. If a woman is not original in her choice and does not wear gowns that express her individuality, then she is certainly lacking in dress sense. Never before have there been so many styles to choose from.

If you are tall and slim you can slip into a siren's sheath that hugs the throat modestly in front but is disconcertingly denuded in the back and completed by just a suspicion of a pointed train. Or you can lose your heart to a gown of Greek persuasion which falls into classical folds about the feet. Or again, you can assume a quaint little old-fashioned air with one of those models with drooped shoulders, bustle, frills and posy of flowers, completed or not by a cameo.

Another thing, women will have to watch their waists more than ever if they want to wear the new clothes with the proper flourish. While the basque, which Paris has decreed as going to be one of the features of daytime clothes, does make the waist look inches smaller, still not the slightest suspicion of excess flesh in that region can get by. It is going to be the winter of the woman with the trim figure. She will have to cultivate a straight back and hold her head high in the approved manner of the 'nineties' in order to wear the bodices buttoning from throat to hem, the umbrella or straightly slim skirts and the basque. They are sufficiently modernized, however, to convey a free and easy grace that our mothers lacked.

Marcel Rochas introduces choir-boy surplises in puffed gauze or silver paillettes on black tulle which, with the wide, bouffant sleeves, offer an unusual addition to the dinner dress. There are some fur-hemmed, pointed capes to accompany the formal evening gowns and amusing little fitted jackets in striped velvet or lame.

The princess line is stressed in Lanvin's collection, but more so in evening than in day dresses. Scarfs lend them a classical look, especially in the models where they are knotted at the back of the decollete and wound around the head in some ingenious manner. Silver lame and a very effective gold and silver-bend embroidery on heavy tulle appear in the guise of berthas, dropped sleeves, pointed pockets and on the long sashes which Lanvin ties around the waist of her semi-formal dinner gowns.

This gold and silver bend trimming is used frequently on slim black afternoon models, as well as silver lame for boleros or straight jackets, with or without sleeves. Formal evening gowns in the inimitable Lanvin style are fashioned of tulle, velvet or crepe. They have trains and one or several deep and very full flounces at the hem. Deep twin flounces outline the armholes in carwheel effect and almost meet at the back of the decollete.

There are a few luxuriously fur-trimmed evening capes but the newer style is the seven-eighths saque wrap in black velvet or cloth of silver, cut very full all around.

Nearly all Lanvin's town ensembles are of the skirt and jumper variety, completed by a hip-length packet or a long coat. The jumpers have short basques and are belted and are usually in some vivid colour with frequent applications of lame. Sports coats are full and have important collars in fur or fabric, pockets and equally important sleeves. Skirts are circular or pleated, with the length unchanged for informal wear.

Afternoon ensembles have ankle-length dresses completed by fur capes which look rather like the school cape little French boys wear, with fullness at the neck simulating a hood. These are made of grey astrakhan, broadtail, or of the same fabric as the dress, fur trimmed, and reach well below the hips at the back.

Fur trimmings are centred at the shoulder tops and there is an extensive use of buttons and the metal beading as a decorative medium. Coral, orange, olive and a hard green and brown are used for daytime clothes, with black relieved by vivid touches of colour for formal wear.

Patou's contribution to fall styles created quite a stir in fashion circles. While his day clothes are simple, Parisian and essentially youthful, his evening dresses offer a totally new line. Fullness, in the shape of panels softly gathered or pleated, is massed at the back, leaving the front perfectly plain and outlining the shape of the legs. Pert little upstanding basque outline the hips in a down-at-the-back movement on some models. Bows are modernized and discreet bustle effects are placed at the back of the waistline to add interest. Decolletes are mostly on the rather wide twin-strap theme with generous expanse of back showing, or they have no backs at all. These new gowns must be worn over a long and fitted, but supple giraffe garment which models the figure without binding it in any way. The result is a line where ease of movement is allied to a very feminine and sensuous silhouette.

Huge bows of velvet brocaded taffetas in gay tartan or stripes trim the high necks of many of Patou's daytime clothes, and there are some moderate fur basques. His new "wild huckleberry," which has all the advantages of black, but more depth and luminosity, is used in a number of interesting combinations in his daytime ensembles, the new colour figuring as dress and lining to black, gray and grog coats. The smart little afternoon dress for which Patou is noted are sober in line and where he uses the "wild huckleberry" there are clever contrasts of dull and shiny fabrics. Tunic skirts, slightly circular, but this at the back only, contribute an entirely new silhouette. Skirts are of medium length for day wear and the waistline is normal, as in most other houses.

Chanel's collection offers no great change of line, but, on the other hand, a great luxury in fabrics (nearly all her own) and a wealth of trimming. Many of her day coats have boleros and seven-eighths sleeves of fur to which is attached a reasonably flared skirt of cloth or velvet. Blouses play a star part in her formal and informal suits, with the former they are often of heavy white satin, brocade or lame and with the latter in fancy velvets of the plaid, striped, checked or floral variety. There are a number of little jersey suits with flared skirts, practical sports ensembles composed of a comfortable top coat and dress of tweed or jersey, all in deep autumnal shades of green and brown which are very handsome.

Her evening line is distinctly of the "Lady Lou" type. Chanel uses a great deal of silver and gold tissue and combines it with organdie. One model, of gold cloth, has four superimposed flounces of organdie piped with the gold. The armholes also were outlined with organdie flounces. Black lace fashions a dress with a modernized ermine skirt.

Hats accompany all of Chanel's models and complement her ensembles. They are all small and perched straight on the head, forming a straight line across the brow. Wings, aligrettes, paradise and ospreys trim the seventy models she shows, which are made of felt, cloth, silk and straw, while several are fashioned of the whole body of the bird, complete with head.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Saturday afternoon Arlene received a telephone message from Sam who was coming to take her to dinner at a new seafood grill at 105th street. Since Mona's boarding house was on 100th street Arlene invited Eve and Mona to ride home with her and Sam.

At 5 the four met outside Bixby's. Arlene insisted that Eve should ride with Sam while she shared the rumble seat with Mona. Eve entered into a lively discussion with Sam on the subject of advertising and was impressed by his shrewdness and vision. The ride to 100th street seemed short.

Mona led Eve to her room on the third floor of the green frame dwelling. It was an attractive room with a dormer containing three small windows. The woodwork had been painted orchid and there were yellow and orchid draperies at the windows to match the yellow and orchid bedspread. These colours were used in a woven rug on the floor.

The girls removed their wraps and went down stairs to dinner. Eve glanced about her as she entered the spacious dining room. Evidently a wall had been removed and two rooms thrown into one. Tables seemed to be everywhere with chatting groups about them. Most of the diners were women.

"But leave it to Mona!" thought Eve as she followed the other girl to a small table at which were seated an elderly woman and a young man. The young man flashed Mona a quick smile. She introduced Eve and then explained that Mr. Miller roomed in the neighbourhood but came here for his meals. Eve felt an uncomfortable third party as the conversation between the two grew animated. Later, when it was suggested that the three of them should go for a ride in Mr. Miller's car Eve pleaded a headache and asked to be dropped off at her home.

"But the ride will cure your headache!" Miller insisted. "Miss Allen and I often drive after dinner. Come on—the more the merrier, you know!"

Eve went for the ride. With Mona monopolizing the conversation there was little for Eve to do but gaze at the early November landscape as they whirled over the country roads. "I hate strange roads after dark," she said to herself. "I'm always running into a ditch." She wondered if it were not time to turn back just as they came to a brightly lighted place called Toby's Tavern.

"All out!" called Mona gaily. "Oh, are you going in there?" Eve asked in dismay.

"It will be fun!" answered Mona emphatically. "We'll have a sip and a bite and a dance or two."

"All right, I'll wait for you here in the car," Eve said as she stepped out to let Mona alight.

The other girl grew impatient. She took Eve's arm and pushed her toward the entrance. "Oh, come out of your character!" she snapped.

Eve entered with them. After all, none of her friends were likely to see her here, she thought with relief. The place looked rather questionable to her. The lights were coloured and gave a dim effect. Little booths lined the walls and they entered one of them. There were benches and a table of rough wood, badly scarred with carved initials. Overhead hung great clusters of coloured autumn leaves, now curled and brittle. In the centre of the room a few couples danced to the music of a jazz band which came over the radio.

Eve was surprised when Mona and Miller ordered sandwiches and coffee. It had been such a short time since dinner. First Eve refused to order anything but later she compromised and asked the waiter to bring her a pineapple ice.

"Will you excuse us while we dance?" Miller asked as he and Mona arose.

No sooner were they on the floor and out of sight than Theron Reece appeared in the entrance of the booth. Eve was startled.

"Don't be afraid of me," he said smoothly. "I won't tell your hubby I found you here. Expecting someone?"

"You know I'm not," she answered heatedly.

"Then you can't mind if I sit down," he responded. "You must be pretty lonely. Will you have a drink?" He pulled a flask from his hip pocket.

Eve felt trapped. It was a first-class little frame-up, she thought. She had not been aware that Reece was in town with Mona. Oh, why did they take such delight in making her uncomfortable? Was it because she made no effort to conceal her dislike for Reece? Now the incident of Mona's automobile accident came to Eve's mind. Arlene had always suspected that the man in the case was Reece. The injured man must have recovered, as no more had been heard of the affair. But what might this night's events lead to? Eve was more than sorry she had accepted Mona's invitation.

Her thoughts raced wildly, trying to decide what she could do. Mona and Miller seemed to be gone a long time. Only once had they danced past the booth where Eve sat. She began to fear they had left the place. Reece carried on a one-sided conversation.

"Do you know, I've always admired you?" he murmured, sliding a hand across the table. Eve instinctively drew back into a corner. Once more he poured liquor from his flask and offered her a drink. Eve's anger mounted.

"I like you that way," Reece said. "Little girl's got a temper, hasn't she?" He arose and started toward her side of the table. Before he could slide to the bench with her, Eve sprang to her feet and ran blindly from the booth. Out of the building, across the lighted area and toward a clump of trees, she made her way. Reece was following but Eve eluded him. She managed to avoid stumbling and slipped along parallel to the road through the darkness. She thought he must have turned back, for not long afterward an automobile approached slowly and she hid behind the trunk of a tree until it had passed.

Before long the machine returned and after a brief stop at Toby's Tavern slowly went in the opposite direction. Reece, no doubt, was looking for her. Eve decided to walk until she came to a trolley. Each time an automobile approached she hid until it had passed. She met no pedestrians on the lonely road. Her ankles were tired from walking on spiked heels and she felt sick with nervous fear. Still she trudged on for what seemed miles and miles. Eve had no idea how soon she would arrive at the Lake City limits nor what car line she might approach.

Finally she came to a farm house bearing a sign "Tourists Welcome." Eve rang the doorbell and when a motherly looking woman with graying hair answered she changed her mind about asking for directions but asked instead if she could stop for the night. She was shown to a apt and sparsely furnished room with a bed and a Jenny Lind bed. Then the farmer's wife turned to her and said, "I'll just send Pa out after your baggage. Did you want to drive your car into the barn for the night?"

When Reece told her she had no

car and no baggage but offered to pay her immediately, her hostess looked dubious, went below evidently to consult "Pa." She returned soon, smiling reassuringly. "It'll be all right, miss," she said. "Did you want to come and set with us a while in the living room or did you just want to go to bed?"

Later as Eve sank with relief into the deep feathered bed she thought, "I suppose 'Pa' is lying awake with a shotgun thinking he's harbouring a suspicious character."

The next morning she found she had walked miles in a direction away from Lake City. She hired the farmer to drive her home. When she reached there Mrs. Brooks appeared. "Oh, Mrs. Reece!" she said. "I couldn't help worrying about you. Your telephone was ringing most of the night."

It rang again shortly. Eve answered and heard Theron Reece's voice. "You little fool!" he said. "Do you think I let any harm come to you? Can't you see that I'm mad about you? Why can't we be friends? Your husband isn't above a little flirtation when the occasion offers. Why not give him a taste of his own medicine?"

Abruptly Eve hung up the receiver. She was terrified. Terrified at the threat of danger in Reece's persistent attentions and terrified at his insinuations about Dick. Were they true—Reece's hints that Dick had been philandering? How was she to hear it if they were true!

"Night Night, Everybody I've Had My Baby's Own Tablets."

It will not be long before the baby is asleep, that sound dreamless sleep of healthy childhood, for her mother knows the value of Baby's Own Tablets and administers them whenever there is need. The little one likes them too, for they are pleasant to take, so there is none of the fuss associated with giving doses of Castor Oil and other nauseating medicines.

Unbroken rest is essential to the health of young children and to attain this the digestive organs must be working properly. If baby is restless, cross, and wailing as a result of constipation, indigestion, wind, a little dose of Baby's Own Tablets is usually all that is necessary to set matters right, and speedily to bring sound peaceful slumber in a perfectly natural way.

The Tablets can also be used with good effect in cases of colic, croup, to check feverishness, expel worms and ease the pangs of teething.

Keep a vial of Baby's Own Tablets in the house and you will have a remedy always at hand to keep baby fit and well. They are the prescription of a physician who made a special study of children's ailments. Obtainable from chemists everywhere.

JAPANESE TRADE COMPETITION

The severity of Japanese competition with Empire industries even within the borders of the Empire hardly requires emphasis. We do not require to go farther afield than Hongkong to discover illustrations of how disastrous its effects can and are likely to be unless emergency measures are taken to enable the storm to be withstood. Protests will undoubtedly be raised in Tokyo. At the same time, it is more than likely that Japan will respect Britain's difficulties provided blind prejudice is not the controlling factor. The Simla negotiations, for instance, are a hopeful sign, showing that both sides are prepared to deal with realities. Consideration will be given there to the long-term effects of policy and possibly lead Britain to avoid action which will prejudice the future. What chiefly must be realised is that Japanese competition, though severe, cannot justly be described as unfair, except in perhaps one or two isolated instances. The recent report by the British Commercial Attache in Tokyo gave the assurance that Japanese products were being sold abroad at a fair trade profit. It is pointed out that Japanese wages have always been lower than British, but hours of labour have improved. In 1916 the average working day was 16 hours. By 1926 it had fallen to just over 9½ hours. By 1930 it was down to almost 9 hours. The cheapness of Japanese goods in terms of other currencies can only be temporary. The suggestion that Japan will continue to pour cheap goods upon the world's markets cannot be sustained. The depreciation of the yen cannot legitimately be used as an argument in favour of shutting out Japanese goods. The yen went off gold only after the pound depreciated. The fact that the Japanese currency is at a discount proves that Japan has not been exporting abnormally. If she is exporting abnormally, the yen will rise to a level which will so raise the price of her exports that further expansion will be impossible. Nor should it be forgotten that to shut out Japanese goods from our home or Colonial markets because of Japan's depreciated currency just now would justify France in taking action against British goods entering her Colonial Empire.

NOTES OF THE DAY

BUS ROYALTIES

Bus service complaints are becoming more frequent. A clear pointer to one of the principal reasons is to be found in the Budget Estimates. Royalties to Government from the bus services are estimated to provide revenue to the extent of $240,000 in 1934. There are few commercial enterprises in this Colony of the same financial standing which could possibly bear supplementary overhead to this extent and (a) pay its way or (b) provide an efficient service. It is perfectly true that the Government is taking no more than was offered, but it is probably equally true to assert that the Government was bent upon taking all it could get. It seems bad business all round, with the regular passenger the primary sufferer.

CURFEW HOUR

The midnight curfew for local cabarets is embodied in the regulations just issued, a fact which suggests, we are afraid, that it must be regarded as permanent. Provision is made for an extension of hours on special occasions, but, thankful as proprietors may be for small mercies, the concession is small. It probably means an extra hour twice in a month at the most, after a good deal of trouble, scarcely worth the while. Hongkong's sainted reputation for dullness is thus to be preserved so far as authority can guarantee. Bright Young Things being unknown to Legislative Council, no word of protest is likely to be raised. At the same time, when it is felt that every other possible source of disquiet is sewn up so tightly, the removal of all liberty in hours of harmless amusement is not easy to appreciate.

TRADE AGREEMENT

Britain's trade agreement with Finland contains little to distinguish it from similar agreements with other countries in Northern Europe. Mr. Runciman's chief objective seems to have been to stimulate British coal exports and it is computed that the aggregate increase as the result of the negotiations of the last few months will be in the region of 5,000,000 tons. It seems to have been worth while, though it is a little unfortunate that the stress of the times should compel Britain to hold out any sort of ultimatum, commercial or otherwise. Balance of trade seems to have become a sort of fetish for economic faddists. And, of course, it is nonsense ultimately. Bilateral balances have no meaning at all in a world economy; lack of balance at one point enables a balance to be struck elsewhere. Artificial interference, in the long run, can only provide further barriers to a resumption of the normal movement of goods.

HOPEFUL SIGNS

The only justification is that it serves its immediate purpose, although that appears to be nothing more or less than economic nationalism, itself a deterrent to world recovery. We have reason to be thankful that ordinary economic forces are at last beginning to exert themselves and that League of Nations experts are able to point to encouraging signs of better times ahead. If recovery was entirely dependent upon the wit of men and statesmen, the outlook would be sad.

GERMAN EDISONS

German state railways lose no opportunity of encouraging their employees not only to take greater interest in their work, but also to make any suggestions they may have for improvements in general work. A special fund has been set aside for the "Edisons of the Reichsbahn" to reward all useful ideas of their employees which may later lead to the patenting of profitable inventions or to better working conditions. In 1932, 125,000 marks (nearly $30,000) was allocated for inventions which had been applied in the technical branches, and for new ideas in matters concerning transport, organization and general control. Patented machines for cleaning express trains which operate quicker and faster than those formerly in use, and a device for preventing fraud by placing worthless nickel coins in automatic machines were among the many inventions rewarded. Of the 445 inventions, forty-five came from the Berlin area, so that the capital was proportionately well represented.

ON THE MILLIONAIRES' HIGHWAY

By TOM CLARKE

IN the golden days of real millionaires it was called their highway.

It starts almost on the cobbled stones of Calais Quay and makes a nearly straight-through drive to the Riviera, 800 miles away to the south. At first it is known as Route Nationale 1, but after Paris (which you dodge via Versailles) it becomes Route Nationale 7; that is to say, as John Prioleau puts it, "the finest road in all France." A proud road, a great road, an historic road. Not one of those elusive feminine roads which need watching all the time. A man's road. More than 1,000 sentinels keep him from wandering. They are those little "kilometre stones" of white, with their red caps. All the way to the Riviera these knowing fellows nod a friendly "N 7" at you. The millionaires' guard of honour.

No map is needed for "N 7"—that is no ordinary map. The one the millionaires use has little to do with the road itself or with topography. Nothing so dull. It is called the "Map of the Gourmets." It shows you not so much where to go motoring but where to go eating and drinking.

Old historic "N 7" may figure incidentally in the map—not for himself but for the keys he holds to blue trout and mellow wines and all the special table delicacies which are held in reverence in this valley or on that hill.

The millionaire of yore would say to the chauffeur of his multipowered car, not "Where do we stop to-night?" but "What do we eat to-night?"

And the "Map of the Gourmets" would supply the answer.

But where are the millionaires to-day? Is France too expensive for them?

At Dover as I shipped my car I saw a notice, "Fill up here with petrol. It is cheaper than on the other side." The charge in France averaged about half-a-crown a gallon. Millionaires don't care to spend money at that rate.

Well down on the millionaires' highway my engine suffered a little breakdown. Now and then a car whizzed past. I put my head further into the bonnet and wondered at the lack of chivalry on this lonely foreign road of the millionaires. Then a big car pulled up. At last a millionaire, I thought. There was good cheer in the sight of his "G.B." plate.

I looked up into the face of a man I had met at lunch at the Savoy, London, a week or two previously—Gilbert Frankau, the famous novelist, whom every woman reads.

"What are you doing here?" we both said at once.

"As for me," I said, "I'm in search of millionaires—this is their highway, isn't it?—and now I suppose I've found one."

"No, you are wrong," he laughed, "just a hard-working storyteller off for a prow around the Continent after ten months hard work."

"Writing a book?"

"I shall not put pen to paper for two months. This is my holiday."

day—France, Italy, Dalmatian Coast, Austria. Don't you think I've earned it? Now can I help you with your car trouble?"

I had another forced stoppage further down south. This time a German, also in trouble near-by, strolled over and asked me to share his bottle of wine. He confessed, too, that he was not a millionaire.

In the hotels, too, they bemoaned the absence of millionaires.

Yet there were lots of other adventures on the road. Here a couple of young women from England, school-teachers, I surmised, trundling along in their baby 2-seater and waving a hand at us as we passed and repassed.

Here a noisy sports car, backing into its "G.B." plate and containing no doubt the two Oxford undergraduates who (I heard later) ran out of cash and slept under haystacks till they could raise a remittance from home.

Still further south I ran into a director of a Bond-street store on the way with his wife to Nice. He denied he was a millionaire.

A little further on, taking a picnic lunch on a river bank, a father and daughter with a little green car. From somewhere like Surbiton, I guessed.

Once a car stopped near us with its baggage labelled as I have never seen baggage labelled before. All the hotel labels in Europe were plastered on.

"Must be millionaires," said someone.

"No," replied our wise man, "that's too ostentatious for any millionaire."

One car passed us with a "G.D." identification plate. We got out our A.A. book to solve the mystery. "Corps Diplomatique." Very grand to be an ambassador, we thought, with such an exclusive plate. There were a large number of "I's" (Italy)—the nearest approach to anything millionaireish. There is no doubt these Italians have their thumbs up. There was something confident and ascendant—even ostentatious about their cars, their speedy driving and their forceful road manners.

We stopped for refreshment at a wayside cafe. It cost us 6d. for a glass of red wine of the State for five of us. The buxom housewife revelled in a chat. British soldiers had been encamped nearby during the war. She was only 16 then. She remembered our soldiers showing her how to fry bacon and eggs because they got so tired of her mother's eternal omelettes.

Sometimes, right in the heart of France, remote from Paris and the politicians, we talked with peasants and workmen about Germany and America and things like that.

Of Germany they would say, with typical French realism, "Yes, Hitler is very good for Germany, no doubt, but very bad for France. So we are ready—we do not want more fighting, but we must be ready."

Of America! They showed us a Paris paper with a picture of the magnificent new American Embassy in the Place de la Con-

The Very Idea! OUR OPERATION

By Ed. "Kibitzer" Kelly

WE are all at sea to-day and have spent most of the time indignantly refusing to have our breath smelt.

What we mean to say is that we are all askew. We are not the man we were since Saturday when we were maltreated by a specialist.

Ho operated on our nose, which we have rightly considered the outstanding feature of our face and played such a tune on that organ that we are always being taken for an American now—except of course when we are not being taken to quod.

You see we can't go straight now because our nose doesn't indicate the way we ought to go and our difficulties are increased because our eyes have always been at cross purposes.

It all began with a yawn in front of a medical friend (sic and so on) who was talking to us. He stopped in the middle of trying to pass one of our jokes on to us and darted a finger into our mouth.

When the choking fit had passed we saw that he was already making out a prescription.

"Waftor?" we gurgled. "Operation," he said briefly. "Your nose is all to pieces."

We took a look at the dear old face in a mirror. The nose was standing erect in its usual place, quivering a little at the end where a piece points upward to the way we ought to go. At least where we would be going if we were a missionary or a steepeljack.

The doctor without warning dealt us a sharp blow on the nose with a handy paper weight.

"You see," said the doctor, "it hurt."

It did. We were standing outside the hotel from which we had just been expelled for using bad language and we still holding the proboscis in both hands.

We felt that matters were getting out of our control. The nose was swelling so much it would soon be too heavy for us and meanwhile the doc was running an affectionate finger along his pomkife.

We gave in.

Stretched out on the surgical slab like a tender doe we felt our courage ebbing steadily from us. "We are too young to die, Doc," we murmured dreamily. "There are so many things we wanted to do."

The butcher squeezed our nose firmly. The nurse squeezed our hand tenderly.

"Courage, my boy," he boomed. "It will not be long."

We dozed off with a vision in our mind of the doctor approaching us with a pair of pliers and a corkcrown.

It seemed hours later when we woke to find the nurse and the doctor engaged in a keen game of draughts.

"How are we, Doc?" we shouted. Operating made easy, we thought, stretching out a careful feeler for the nose.

The Doc removed a king from the board and took his pliers out of his pocket.

"We haven't started yet," he announced. "You fainted."

DEAN INGE CRITICISES MODERN NOVELS

No Nobility About Their Characters

Dean Inge, speaking at St. Mary's, Wootton, Oxford, where he spent his holiday, criticised the tone of the modern novel.

"National character," he said, "is reflected pretty accurately in its imaginative literature. It seems to me that most of our popular writers give us a very gray world, painting sordid vice and mean conduct as nothing out of the ordinary. There is no nobility about any of their characters. The whole effect gives us a much poorer picture of life than most of us have seen."

"The effect of much of the present day literature is to make young readers hold themselves and others cheap—one of the worst disservices imaginable. Human nature is capable of rising to great heights and sinking to profound depths, but it is not truly presented in drab colours."

"Wasting my life on arithmetic when I was meant to be a cow boy."

ROOSEVELT'S MONETARY POLICY

CONFERS IN NEW YORK

AN EARLY STATEMENT EXPECTED

STRIKE POSITION BETTER

New York, Oct. 3. Speedy developments in the credit and monetary situation are suggested by the fact that President Roosevelt, as soon as he arrived from Chicago, conferred with General Hugh Johnson, Mr. W. H. Woodin and Mr. Harrison, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

An early official announcement of policy is generally expected. It is probable that a speech outlining the Administration's programme will be made by President Roosevelt to-morrow night at latest. It is thought that the industrial recovery situation has improved slightly.

MINERS GO BACK.

To-day about 25,000 miners returned to work in Western Pennsylvania, although a mass meeting of fifteen thousand miners at Pittsburgh voted against a return to work until the Frick Company has signed the Union contract.

Coal strikes continue to cause anxiety in several other States, while many steel workers are still striking because the Weirton Company refuses to deal with the Union.

Lorry-drivers in New York are still out, compelling emergency measures in order to keep the city food supplies ample for requirements.—Reuter.

RESIGNATION RUMOUR.

Washington, Oct. 3. Despite President Roosevelt's eloquent appeal for national unity, it is rumoured that General Johnson, his chief lieutenant in the N.R.A., may resign. General Johnson is to leave New York to-day to confer with President Roosevelt on the N.R.A. policies and the chief problems confronting the administration. The increased strikes, it is felt, are serious enough to threaten the food supplies of the city.

The latest development in the coal campaign is the protest by prominent film actors and actresses against the formation of a salary control board, and fourteen have resigned from the Motion Picture Academy.

SOME WORKERS RETURN.

On the other hand, while New York is menaced with strikes, it is announced that the local Mediation Board has settled disputes involving 30,000 workers during its week's existence, while previously the New York N.R.A. chairman had settled the strike of 60,000 workers in the dress industry.

The annual convention of the Federation of Labour opened to-day after the Executive Council had drawn up a resolution calling for the revision of all codes now in operation in order to assure higher wages and a 30-hour week. Mr. W. Green, in a speech to the convention, declared that the 11,000,000 unemployed will not be re-employed until the issue is boldly and uncompromisingly faced, and a six-hour day and five-day week established.—Reuter.

ALLEGED ASSAULT

TWO INDIAN WATCHMEN CHARGED

Two Indian watchmen, Mid Singh and Bachan Singh, appeared before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning on a charge of having assaulted another watchman, Dyal Singh, at the Imperial Chemical Industries godown at Wanchai.

Sub-Inspector Dick said that the case was in the hands of Detective Sergeant Fitches who was away at the Government Civil Hospital on a case, and asked for defendants to be remanded for 48 hours.

All he knew was that it was a promoted assault, the complainant being struck with sticks, and having to be taken to the G. C. H.

Mr. Schofield remanded defendants until Friday morning, and allowed bail in $250 each.

NANKING FINANCES

STATEMENT BY MR. SOONG

Nanking, Oct. 4. How difficult is the financial plight in which the Central Government finds itself was revealed in a detailed memorandum submitted to the Executive Yuan yesterday by Mr. T. V. Soong, relative to his proposal for the flotation of a $100,000,000 loan in Customs Treasury Notes.

The loan will be secured on the increased customs rates recently promulgated and will carry interest of 5 per cent. He said that the balance of the national budget had been upset since the Japanese invasion of Jehol, which compelled the Central Government Treasury to appropriate heavy funds to meet the extraordinary military expenses.

Solo on this score, the Central Government's total expenditure in the period from March to July averaged $40,000,000 higher than the estimates.

Moreover, the financial position was rendered more difficult by the fact during and after the campaign in resisting the Japanese invasion in the North, revenues in the war-affected areas considerably fell off.

The Finance Minister said that during his sojourn in Shanghai he had consulted with the leading bankers in regard to the proposed Customs Treasury Loan. Happily, the bankers had complete confidence in the Government's ability to maintain its credit, and were willing to give unreserved support to the flotation of the loan which would be fully repaid in a period of twelve and a half years.—Central News Agency.

STONES HURLED 200 YARDS

This stone was blown, easily 200 yards away from where they were blasting, remarked Sergeant Danbrowsky prosecuting Yau Kei, a subcontractor to the Foo Loong Company, before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having failed to take sufficient precautions when carrying out blasting operations at Morrison Hill on Saturday, September 23.

The Sergeant added that the race meeting was being held and there were quite a lot of children about. Several small pieces of stone hit the roof of the petrol service station. He went to the scene, but did not see any timber or a shield being used.

Mr. Schofield imposed a fine of $200.

£35,000,000 LESS EXPENDITURE

London, Oct. 3. The weekly Treasury returns issued to-night show that the ordinary revenue for the current financial year up to September 30—date for the first half year—amounted to £276,736,842. At the corresponding date of last year it amounted to £268,628,308.

The ordinary expenditure to-day for the current year totalled £324,926,907, which is over £35,000,000 less than the total ordinary expenditure at the corresponding date of last year.—British Wireless.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

HATRED IS THE MADNESS OF THE HEART.—Byron.

The Rev. Father Joseph A. Sweeney, of the Maryknoll Fathers in Ossining, N.Y., is at present on a visit to Hongkong. It is understood that Father Sweeney intends to found a leper colony in South China to be maintained by U. S. Catholics.

One case of diphtheria, ten cases of typhoid with one death (one imported), two cases of meningitis with four deaths, one imported case of human rabies with one death, and fifty deaths from tuberculosis, were reported to the local health authorities last week. On Monday one case of typhoid was also reported.

Two returned banished, Ho Lam and Tung Hing, who were both banished for a period of ten years each in August this year, were sentenced to nine months' hard labour each by Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning. The men were arrested at West Point, and said that they had come back to get some money.

DEATH OF A GREAT GEOLOGIST

Professor J. E. Marr

(Our Own Correspondent).

(The Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance 1191. Received October 1, 1933.)

London, Oct. 3. The death has occurred of Professor John Edward Marr, the well known geologist, at the age of 78.

Professor Marr, who obtained his Sc.D. (Cambridge), Hon. Ph.D. (Prague), was a Fellow of the Royal Society.

From 1917 to 1930 he was Woodwardian Professor of Geology at Cambridge and also Emeritus Professor.

Among his numerous offices were those of ex-President of the Geological Society. A member of the Yorkshire Naturalists' Union, Hon. Member of the Geological Association and of the Belgian, Liverpool and Leeds Geological Societies, as well as the New Brunswick Natural History Society.

From 1904 to 1906 he was a member of the Council of the Royal Society and served on the Council of the British Association from 1896 to 1902. He was President of section C of the Association in 1896, and was presented with the Medal of the Royal Society in 1930.

He wrote numbers of text books on geology and Natural History.

FRACAS NEAR KING'S THEATRE

A DIFFERENCE OVER A DEBT.

Two Chinese, Li Wong, 24, and Sam Kee, aged 66, who elected to settle the difference over a debt caused a crowd to collect outside the King's Theatre yesterday afternoon. They argued and a fight ensued both falling to the pavement. An Indian constable came on the scene and took both men to the Central Police Station.

They appeared before Mr. Balfour this morning in the Central Court charged with fighting. Both defendants were bound over in a bond for $25 to keep the peace for six months.

BIG NAVY LEADER

MR. SWANSON NOW IN HAWAII

MANY RUMOURS

Honolulu, Oct. 1. A strong navy is the best assurance of peace, said Mr. Claude Swanson on his arrival in Hawaii for an inspection of the U.S. naval establishment.

Swanson parried questions of reporters and said his visit was merely a routine inspection, and had no special significance.

Asked about naval rivalries between Japan and the United States, Swanson said that the two nations were friendly and that the so-called rivalries were of the nature of a misnomer, since both countries were working within already defined treaty limits.

GUNBOATS FOR YANGTZE.

The United States has no special plans with respect to Asiatic waters, he said, adding that the new naval construction, however, contemplated two new gunboats for the Yangtze river.

Despite the easiness with which Swanson carried himself, his arrival has intensified interest throughout the world in the various Pacific problems as represented by the new naval policy, the economic, political and naval status of Hawaii, the status of the Philippines, and naval disarmament.

The ostensible purpose of the Navy Secretary's visit to Hawaii at this time is merely a routine inspection of United States naval establishments in this naval outpost in the Pacific. His tour is part of a general inspection trip including similar visits to the United States naval station at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba; the Panama Canal Zone; Hawaiian naval establishments; Bremerton Navy Yard, Washington, and naval establishments at San Francisco and San Pedro, California.

SUSPICIONS.

Popular and international interest, however, cannot be confined to the routine inspection phases of Secretary Swanson's tour. Whether the Roosevelt administration admits it or not, the coincidence of the Navy Secretary's visit here and the acute interest in all problems in the Pacific can not be dispelled from the public mind.

Of great importance to residents of the United States, and the world generally, is the bearing which the secretary's visit to Hawaii will have on the strengthening of the United States' naval defence in the islands. The "new naval policy" announced by Mr. Swanson some time ago declared for such strengthening of these defences.

CONSTRUCTION WORK.

Any construction work in this regard is considered sure to have repercussions from Japan, where the new United States naval policy has already drawn severe critical fire.

With a navy building programme calling for rapid completion of nearly 37 new ships, a navy policy calling for a United States navy of full treaty strength by 1936, and a continuance of the policy of maintaining the bulk of the United States navy in Pacific waters, improvements and enlargement of the United States naval establishments in Hawaii are anticipated. It is believed the Secretary of the Navy is in the islands to obtain first-hand knowledge of conditions here with those ends in view.

DEAN SWANN'S RETURN

BISHOP AND "WHITE ANT MONEY"

Bishop Hall writes in the current issue of St. Andrew's Church monthly magazine announcing that Dean Swann arrives back on October 19 in time for Trafalgar Day, in which he is well qualified to take part—not only for his efforts on the trout streams of England, but for sterner work in a mine-strewn North Sea.

"We look forward enormously to his coming back, with new inspiration and strength for his priceless job of ministering in Christ's name to his fellow-countrymen in the Colony."

"When you read this, there will still be fourteen days, perhaps less, before he comes, and there may still be some 'White Ant Money' to be collected. Will you please see to it that we can greet him with the news that that is done?"

HOME FOOTBALL: OUR "BEAT THE BOOK" FORECAST

SEVERE TEST FOR THE LEAGUE LEADERS

ARSENAL ALSO LIKELY TO BE "UP AGAINST IT"

"PILGRIM" DISCUSSES PROSPECTS

Tottenham have a sporting chance of regaining their position in the League on Saturday when Pompey, the present leaders, will be hard put to it to eke the one point from Ledsdale which will leave them on top.

Huddersfield will have a trying day at Villa Park but I doubt if Birmingham, who visit the Huns at the Blenheim Ground, will be able to seize the opportunity to jump a place.

Derby are due for a recovery I think, though on present showing their home record is not inspiring.

Their engagement at Blackburn will be rather in the nature of a test for the Arsenal and I am inclined to think that they will not have the better of the exchange.

The position in the Second Division is very similar but I do not think Bolton will be deposed this week.

The local Derby on the Forest's ground will draw its usual large crowd and over-optimism on the part of the home side will probably contribute to their rivals' efforts.

My unexpected drawing with Bradford at the Midland venue, West Ham again confounded the critics.

I think the Wolves, Hammers, and Walsals are the three most undependable teams in the League although their occasional brilliant exploits make them a delight from the spectator's point of view.

A hot contest for points marks every match in which the crack clubs of the Southern Section take part and I expect their positions will be scarcely changed at the completion of this weekend's programme.

It is curious that although among the clubs of the lower divisions there are many more goals scored yet quite a number preserve clean home records still.

The luckless Rotherham are down in the mire and it is even possible they have collected only one point. They have scored four times and have 17 against them.

Motherwell will receive a serious challenge when they journey to Kilmarnock and they will do well to retain their remarkable record.

In 11 games they have not dropped a single point and the six goals against them is the lowest with one exception, in the English and Scottish Leagues. Their scoring propensities are not so outstanding and it would appear that an impenetrable defence is their great asset.

UPS AND DOWNS OF CARDIFF

OLD HANDS AT CRYSTAL PALACE GIVE PLACE TO YOUTH

Cardiff City have had more "ups and downs" than any side in the League since the war, and although many believed that each season had been touched last season one cannot see much hope of an improvement.

The moral is obvious, but the directors are frank enough to admit that as much as they would like to build up a new side they have not got the money to do it.

Therefore Mr. Bart Wilson, the new manager, who has taken over the club for many years by Mr. Fred Stewart, is a handicap.

He was told at the start that he could not spend a penny in transfer fees. So that Cardiff have opened the new campaign with last year's side.

The only notable additions were Calder, a back from Glasgow Rangers, and Hutchinson, said to be a scheming inside forward, who, with Leslie Jones and Maidment, should be able to make the right sort of openings for Henderson.

The forwards look all right, but the half-backs will need strengthening.

This key position is very inadequate at the moment.

Crystal Palace

Although they finished fifth in the Southern Section of the Third Division last season, Crystal Palace were by no means satisfied with the general form of the team. It was unreliable, brilliant at times and weak occasionally, and never once did they enter the running for promotion.

This year a change is already to be seen. Several of the older players have gone, making room for no fewer than 11 newcomers, their help, and granted a reasonable immunity from injury, the Palace should have little difficulty in showing an improvement on last year.

There is an all-round excellence in the Palace side that tends for confidence. At home they should gain the greater part of the points at stake, and although they may lack a little aggressiveness away on their opponents' grounds they will not fall far short of promotion.

I expect the Palace to figure prominently in the competition, and to be one of the four leading teams at the end of the season.

SCANDAL OF INTERNATIONAL FOOTBALL

CLUBS' PROVOCATIVE OBSTINACY IN WITHHOLDING PLAYERS

THE early holding of International soccer matches is again taking place.

Nothing could be more lowering to the prestige of international football. It has now become subservient to club interests.

With the exception of the England v. Scotland match in April, all the international matches have to be played before the F.A. Cup-ties come along and before it is known which teams are likely to be in the championship or relegation struggles. In other words, international matches must not interfere with, or even affect, the chances of the League clubs.

With the grounds as they are and the ball as lively as it is a premium is placed on youth and speed.

Rarely is good football seen in such conditions, yet an international, which should represent the finest example of present-day skill, must take place because the League clubs insist upon it.

Surely this latest example of the folly of placing club before country will effect a complete change of attitude towards what should be the outstanding matches of the year.

Soon England has commenced her international campaign. Ireland has already been met.

It is unfair to the F.A. to place the responsibility of picking an England team upon their shoulders when they have had so little time to study the form of the various candidates for honours.

At a meeting of the Irish F.A. Emergency Committee it was decided to send a strongly-worded letter of protest to the F.A. regarding the non-release of players. Among those whose services were refused by their clubs were, it is understood, Cook (Everton), MacKie (Portsmouth), Dunne (Sheffield United), Duggan (Leeds United), English (Liverpool) and Priestley (Chelsea).

Knows Where The Goal Is

Tottenham this year are well satisfied with the form of McCormick, their outside right. Not only does he play the usual role of winger with skill, but he knows how to score goals. He scored all three goals against Leicester in a recent match.

CLUBHOUSE CHATTER BY "PILGRIM"

CURSE OF PUBLICITY: PLAYERS PAMPERED AND MADE SOFT: LUTON'S EXPENSIVE SIDE: PLAYERS' UNION: £4,000 SOLATIUMS

MORE spectators, less discipline. More newspapers, more heat. Too much hero-worship. Result: too many players making the grievous error of believing they have nothing more to learn.

WHY do so few of our League clubs employ coaches? Because, according to several managers the modern player won't be taught. Think he knows it all. Such is 1933.

SOCCER simply cannot afford to lack authority in the inside forward positions, which have always been the glory of the game. Jack, Walker, inside men like these contribute more to the artistry of the game than those of any other position.

OUTSIDE forward play has improved—because these men have more opportunities since the off-side law was changed. But they contribute more of speed and spectacle than science to the game.

DERBY needed an inside forward like Groves to add skill and subtlety to their attack. Why are inside men of this type so scarce. Scotland can find them for her international team—James, McPhill, Stevenson, England can't. Why?

"WE make too much fuss of them," says the Derby manager. "If a player turns out to be really good he is hoisted and flattered. There were great players twenty years ago, and they never got half the praise and publicity that are heaped out to their successors."

NOR did they receive as much attention in their training quarters. To-day, too many players are "soft" and pampered."

THE fee the Anfield club paid for the transfer of Sam Egan was the heaviest ever paid for a forward. In fact, I was rather surprised the Rangers let him go. Am I wrong in supposing that the fatal accident to John Thomson, the Celtic goalkeeper, affected Egan's career in Glasgow?

A sensation was caused in Exeter Soccer circles when it was officially announced that Charlie Miller (left-back), who has rendered splendid service to the City club for several seasons, and who took his benefit last season, had been placed on the open-transfer list. This, it was officially stated, has come about at Miller's own request.

EXETER have also, by mutual consent, cancelled the contract of Stan Barber, the half-back who has been a splendid servant to the club for three seasons. He has been in indifferent health for some time and it is this that has caused the cancellation of the contract.

LUTON are now folding the most expensive side in the club's history. Seven of the team have played in the First Division. Five recruits are introduced.

NOTTS County may be short of goal-scoring, as was the case in the last season, and I do not fancy the side to do more than keep its own skin this time out.

BRENTFORD have a strange little ground to play upon, and it will be there that they will gain most of their points.

THE other "D's" from Lancashire may have their good days, but Burnley are not cutting much ice. They have signed a Chedzoy, I know, but the side only just scraped through last season, and Tom Bromlow, the old Liverpool half-back should get moving, or the club may not be so lucky in escaping next time.

GRIMSBY Town came along at a fine gallop late last season, but a good start is essential to get a club into the First Division.

HULL City do well at home, where they are indeed "Tigers," but somehow or other they fall off when away from Humberside. (Continued on Page 5.)

5 MINUTES FOOTBALL

Team Work In Defence

AN ESSENTIAL

(By "Saracen")

It is a mistake to believe that a sound defence depends on the goalkeeper and backs. Defence is team work and it cannot be first class unless every member of the side plays his part. Even with the half-backs helping to protect the goal, all of the men must pull together.

This is also true of the wing forwards, although comparatively few of these players seem to realize it. All too often you see them waiting about for the ball to be sent to them whereas it is up to them to lend a hand by going back to help their wing half and back. Even if they have no chance of retrieving the ball it is important that they should chase any opponent in possession because in that way they can at least prevent him doing just as he likes.

It sometimes happens that backs are blamed for the loss of goals when their failings may be traced to the faults of others. For instance, early in the season the two backs of Manchester City were often criticized. It was significant however that as soon as McMillan was put in the front line the number of goals obtained against the team diminished. The explanation of this was that with McMillan lying back he was always in close touch with his half and could readily lend him assistance.

FORWARDS' TASK.

Modern football demands that the inside forward should go back and challenge the opposite players on the opposing side and it is because they cannot be in two places at the same time that we have to-day the exaggerated formation. If an inside forward plays his part properly he is the hardest worked member of a team and it is unfair to blame him because he is not always up in the penalty area to help in forcing home an attack.

Several first class sides have inside forwards who are inclined, on losing the ball, to stand still and watch their colleagues in the rear, struggling to relieve the situation. In every case the soundness of the defences is impaired.

If the covering is complete a defence may be almost perfect, but it is certain that there will be loopholes unless every man is ready to do his bit and is keen enough to anticipate how he may give the maximum assistance.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET STEADY

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was steady yesterday. Business done 930,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market rallied substantially for no accountable reason, but it is probably a normal technical adjustment due to an overvalued condition. Trading was at its duller due to world series. Our New York Office Cable (This morning) Stocks: The market is largely professional and is most likely to remain in a narrow trading range pending news and developments. Wheat: The market was very dull with small pressure awaiting further developments. Cotton: With moderate hedging absorbed by the Trade, no speculative buying will probably find scarcity of contracts for yards and cloth. The market is quiet but very steady. Good demand for spot. Basic firm. Silver: The market was erratic but with a firm undertone. Cable received during our Night Service at 12 a.m. Market in good technical position. Administration indicates programme liberal standing and lending. Dow-Jones averages:

GROWING BRITISH CONFIDENCE IN RETURNING PROSPERITY

NO FLASH IN THE PAN

MR. CHAMBERLAIN HOPEFUL

BANK BANQUET SPEECH

London, Oct. 3. Mr. Neville Chamberlain, traditionally a purveyor of gloom, struck a highly optimistic note to-night at the annual banquet of the Bankers' Association at the Mansion House.

Points from his speech were: The Budget will be balanced this year.

There was a further drop in unemployment in Britain during September.

We are seeing the beginning of a permanent advance and of definite progress.

Trade improvements in the last few months are no mere flash in the pan.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer expressed the view that Britain could look forward to the future with every confidence. The upturn was definite and was continuing steadily.

GOLD STANDARD.

Referring to the Government's financial policy, he declared that Britain would probably eventually return to the gold standard, but could not say when.

The requisite state of affairs to permit such action are not yet existing.

To show the urgency of reviving international trade, Mr. Chamberlain said that British exports halved in value during the years 1929 and 1932, and we lost some $366,000,000 in income.

FOUR OBJECTS.

The four principal objects to be achieved were:

- (a) a rise in wholesale prices, by international agreement if necessary
- (b) the removal or the lowering of excessive trade barriers
- (c) the establishment of an international monetary standard
- (d) a resumption of international lending.—Reuter.

HONGKONG GOLF CLUB

ACTIVITIES OF THE LADIES' SECTION

THEFT AND FALSE PRETENCES

STOWAWAY VICTIMISES PASSENGER

COURT SENTENCE

Delfin Frina, a Filipino salesman aged twenty-eight, appeared in the dock of the Central Police Court before Mr. Balfour this morning charged with:—

Possession of the first and second bills of exchange on Draft No. 1642203 for $200 on the Nederlandsch Indische Handelssbank, stolen outside the Colony on October 2.

Obtaining from Kwan Seong Bay, artist, $15 by falsely pretending that the bill of exchange for $200 in the name of Hung Luk-lean, was his property.

Signing the name of Luk Hung-lean on the bill of exchange without lawful authority.

Uttering the bill of exchange. Frina, who spoke English, pleaded guilty to the second charge, but denied the other three counts.

Detective-Sergeant L. Minty conducted the prosecution.

WHILST HAVING BATH.

Kwan Seong Bay, said he recently returned from America on board the Dollar liner President Coolidge. He went for a bath aboard the ship and when dressing again found the wallet, containing the cheques, to be missing. He reported the matter to the Captain, and on arrival on Monday afternoon, went ashore and informed the bank requesting them to stop payments. At the bank he saw defendant sitting on a bench.

He returned to the Luk Hoi Tung Boarding-house and later received a call from the bank. The writing on the cheque was not his. The name Hung Luk-lean was the name of his father-in-law. He obtained the cheques in San Diego, U.S.A. Defendant: Did you see me in the bathroom? Witness: Yes. You were with another man, a Filipino. Defendant: You are lying. Witness: I am not.

A STOWAWAY.

Ho Lok, shroff at the Netherlands Bank gave evidence, after which the defendant stated:—"I leave myself to the mercy of the Court. I have nothing further to say."

Sergeant Minty: Defendant came as a stowaway to Koba on a boat and was put on board the President Coolidge to go back to Manila. I have seen the American Consul but he said he would have nothing to do with him.

The magistrate passed sentence of six weeks' hard labour on each charge, the terms to run concurrently.

It was stated that deportation would follow.

OPIUM DIVANS RAIDED

TWO FOUND ON THE SAME FLOOR

In respect of two opium divans on one floor at 52, Sai Street, two Chinese, one an out-of-work and the second a baker, were charged as keepers before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning.

Prosecuting the first man, Det. Insp. O'Donovan said there was insufficient opium for examination and he applied for withdrawal on a charge of possession. They could not prove the origin of the opium.

Defendant was fined $75 or six weeks' prison.

In the second case, the baker pleaded guilty also to a charge of the possession of a small quantity of illicit opium. He was fined $8, or one week, and an additional fine of $65 or six weeks was imposed on the charge of being the keeper of the divan.

There were ten smokers in all.

LINCOLNS MAN SENTENCED

FORTY-TWO DAYS' DETENTION

Sentence of 42 days' detention was passed on Pte. James Johnson, of the Lincolns, at a recent Court Martial at Shamshulpo Camp when he was charged with failing to obey an order to attend a defection parade and using insubordinate language to a superior officer. The verdict has received confirmation by the G.O.C.

The big waves that followed in the wake of motor cars and buses overturned several rickshas into the waters.

HIT COOLIE WITH UMBRELLA

BROKER AND RICKSHA PULLER

Mr. John Castillo, described as a broker, was charged before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistrate's Court this morning, with having assaulted Tsui Kau, a ricksha puller in Queen's Road, East.

He admitted the offence, was fined $5, ordered to pay $2 amends and bound over in $50 to keep the peace for six months.

Sub-inspector Dick said that the defendant engaged the complainant's ricksha about 11.30 a.m. yesterday at the Star Ferry and proceeded to Queen's Road, East, near Ship Street, where he alighted.

He had no money to pay the coolie, and an argument arose. The upshot was that defendant struck the coolie on his head with an umbrella inflicting a slight injury. The incident was witnessed by Mr. Morley, of the Central Medical Stores.

Defendant was slightly under the influence of liquor when brought to the station.

Defendant said that he had just returned home and was feeling a bit drowsy. He had no intention of hitting the coolie and expressed his regret for having done so.

BALLOON ASCENT RECORD

SOVIET AERONAUTS JOURNEY OVER 11 MILES INTO STRATOSPHERE

Moscow, Oct. 1. Government wireless stations last evening announced that the balloon "Stratostat" had landed safely in a meadow near Kalomna, 71 miles from Moscow, after a flight to 19,000 meters, or 11.8 miles above the earth. This is a new altitude record.

The balloonists appeared to be in good condition and said that they were proud to have beaten the record of 16,700 meters set by Piccard, Belgian balloonist last year.

The fliers are Georgi Proklov, Ernest Gibratum and Dostantini Gudonoff. Their balloon, especially constructed for the stratosphere, is army property.

Five Messages Sent. The flight started at 8.41 yesterday morning and the actual time in the stratosphere was reported to be only four hours. After eight previous attempts to take off, the big balloon was cut loose from its moorings and ascended rapidly.

Five messages related the swift upward progress to the betterment of Piccard's record, within two hours and nineteen minutes of the takeoff. The aviators did not complain of the cold although the temperature in the gondola was reported to be twenty-two degrees below zero, Centigrade.

MORE BAD LUCK

MOLLISONS FAIL TO LEAVE GROUND

Toronto, Oct. 3. James and Amy Mollison, world-famous British fliers, found their attempts at a record-breaking distance flight dogged by bad luck again to-day when their plane, Seafarer II, failed to take off from the flying field at Wagon Beach, near Collingwood, Ontario.

Recently, at the completion of a westward Atlantic crossing, the Mollisons were injured when their plane crashed just outside New York. This mishap spoiled their plan to return together across the Atlantic and attempt to reach Baghdad.

At present they are bound for Baghdad when, and if, they are able to rise with their 600 gallons of special English petrol.

They taxied along the beach for over half a mile, but each time failed to lift the Seafarer off the ground. The engine stalled at the end of the first run. The second run was equally unsuccessful. They could not rise an inch.

STREET SLEEPERS.

SHELTER TO BE OPENED ON DECEMBER 1.

Arrangements are now well under way for the opening of the shelter for street sleepers at St. Peter's Church, West Point, on December 1. The Executive Committee of the Street Sleepers Shelter Society have decided to make a nominal charge of two cents a person each night for bed and shelter, and the shelter will be open daily from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. to admit the street sleepers, who must be out of the building at 7 a.m. the next morning. Hot tea and hot water will be provided.

There will be volunteer helpers on duty to register the street sleepers as they come in at 6 p.m. collect the nominal charge of two cents a person, and see that everything is in order, before they leave at 9 p.m. Some volunteer helpers will assist also the Medical Committee in rendering first aid when necessary. Each night there will be at least two helpers to take duty, and a rota will be made out so that each person will not be called upon too often.

The Executive Committee of the Society will meet on Friday, October 6 at St. John's Cathedral Hall at 6.15. A list of donations will be published after the Executive Committee Meeting. The Society aims at raising $5,000, and looks to every section of the Colony in its appeal for donations.

Small or large sums will be appreciated and may be forwarded to the following places:

CHINA ESTATES HEAVY LOSS

DEFALCATIONS OF AN EMPLOYEE

ANNUAL MEETING EXPLANATION

At the tenth annual general meeting held to-day at noon of shareholders of China Estates, Limited, the owners of China Building, defalcations by an employee holding the position of rent-collector and book-keeper, who has since disappeared, amounting to $50,000, were referred to as a bad debt and loss to the Company.

Nevertheless, the dividend for the year was maintained at what is pointed out as the normally good market value of 8 per cent.

In view of the "unfortunate happening," the Directors decided to have the Books and Accounts examined monthly.

Mr. Li Yui-tsun, C.B.E., presided over the meeting. Others present were: Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., Messrs. Li Yick-mui, Lan Tak-po, Leung Ting-kai, Leung Kwai-lin, Foo Yick-pan (Director), Fung Ping-fan (Director and Secretary), and Messrs. M. K. Lo, Li Koon-chun, Li Po-kwai, and Lo Tung-wan, (shareholders).

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH. The chairman said:—Gentlemen.—The Report of the Directors and Statement of Account having been in your hands for the prescribed period, I will, with your permission, take them as read.

The net profit for the year, after provision having been made for Reserve for Depreciation on China Buildings ($36,500), Bad and Doubtful Debts ($50,000), and Directors' and Auditor's Fees and other expenses, is $71,041.28 which, added to the $427,525.16 brought forward from last account, makes a total of $498,566.43.

Your Directors regret that the net profit for the year shows a decrease of $61,559 as compared with that of the previous year. That decrease is due to (1) the provision of $50,000 for Bad Debts, (2) the writing off of $500.30 in respect of Bad Debts (loans and advances), and (3) the fact that about $9,000 payable to us for interest on loans during the year under review was not paid until after the 23rd February, 1933, and this interest will consequently go into next year's account.

The provision of the unusually large sum of $50,000 for Bad Debts is due to a defalcation amounting to $103,844.97 having been committed by the rent-collector and bookkeeper of the Company, one Ng Chun-sing alias Thomas Ng, who absconded in August last.

It is hoped that this proposal will meet with your approval.

DEATH OF MR. LIANG SHIH-YI. It is with very deep regret that the Directors have to record the death of Mr. Liang Shih-yi, ex-Premier of China, who was a founder of this Company, and whose advice had been invaluable to the Company. In recognition of Mr. Liang's services, your Directors have co-opted his son Mr. Liang Ting-kai to fill the vacancy. According to our Articles of Association Mr. Liang Ting-kai's term of office expires, and I shall presently have pleasure in submitting his name for re-election as a Director for the ensuing year.

I beg now to move that the Directors Report and Statement of Account as presented be adopted. When the motion has been seconded I shall be pleased to answer any questions that may be put to me.

Mr. M. K. Lo seconded. There being no questions, the motion was put to the meeting and carried unanimously.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Messrs. Lau Tak-po, Fung Ping-fan and Liang Ting-kai, retiring Directors, offered themselves for re-election. The Chairman moved, Mr. Foo Yick-pan seconded and the resolutions were carried unanimously.

The Chairman said:—The account have been audited by Mr. Li Tung who, retired, but offers himself for re-election. In view of the recent unfortunate happening, your Directors have decided to have the books and accounts of the Company examined monthly, and would therefore be glad if the remuneration of the auditor be left to them to decide after six months' experience.

Mr. Lau Tak-po proposed and Mr. Foo Yick-pan seconded, that Mr. Li Tung be re-elected auditor for the ensuing year for such remuneration as may be mutually agreed upon between him and the Directors of the Company. Carried unanimously.

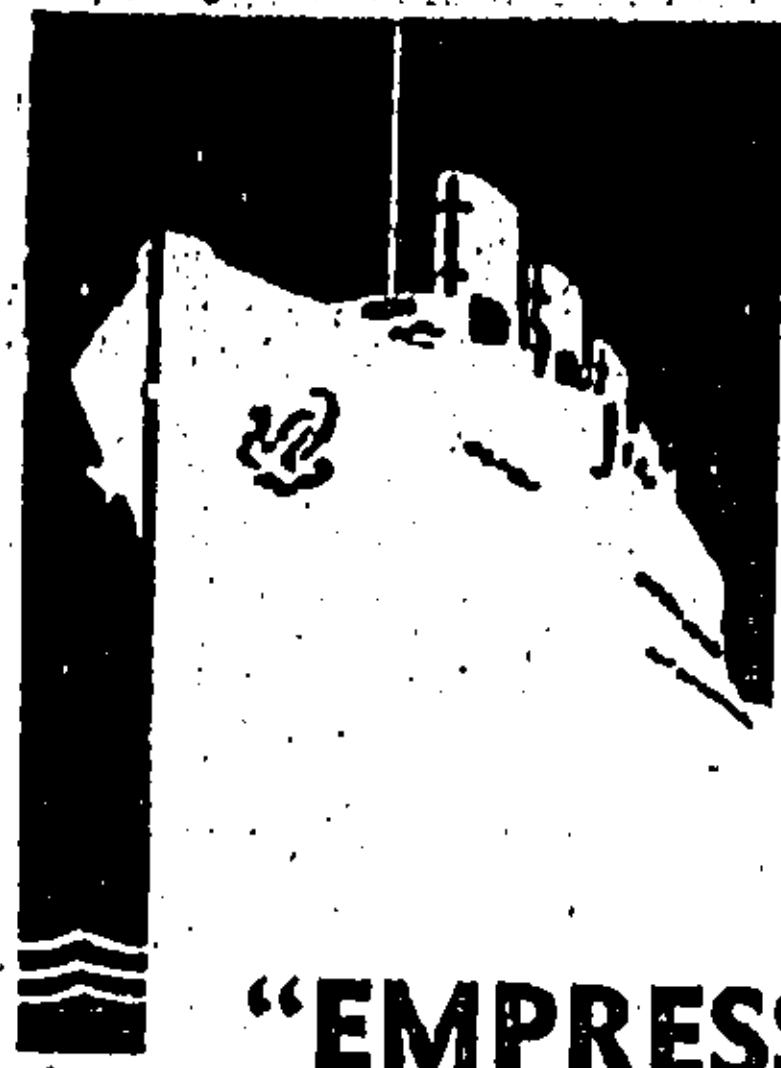

Moreover, about 90 per cent. of the shares of the Company are held by the Directors themselves and their relatives, and so about 90 per cent. of the loss falls on them. I am stating these two facts in extenuation, but to show that in reposing this misplaced confidence in one of the Company's employees, the Directors are themselves the greatest sufferers.

NO VACANT ROOMS. Fortunately, there is still to be carried over to now account the sum of $366,566.43, and all our shops and offices have been let, there being not a single vacant room in the whole building in spite of these bad times. The Company being in this satisfactory financial position, the Directors are glad to be able to recommend to you, a final dividend of $5 per share, which is the same as that voted for the previous year. If rental continues to maintain its present figure during the next 12 months, the Directors are in hopes of being able to recommend to you a better dividend next year.

The provision of the sum of $50,000 in the accounts now before you was made after careful consideration by the Board and in consultation with the auditor, as your Directors have considered it best to spread the loss over two years instead of including it all in next year's account; or instead of commencing the writing off in the next Balance Sheet, as our idea is to wipe this loss off our books by the end of the next financial year.

Your Directors have decided to recommend the apportionment of the $449,066 in the following manner:—

To pay a final dividend of $5 per share, ... $ 82,500.00
To carry forward to new account ... 366,566.43
$449,066.43

Six strikingly beautiful women vie with as many rib-tickling comedians, for honours in RKO-Radio Pictures' fast moving comedy, "Ladies of the Jury" opening to-day at the Central Theatre.

The screen charmers are Jill Emond, a favourite of Broadway, New York; Kitty Kelly, lately of Ziegfeld's glorified Follies; Lita Chovet, winner of many beauty contests and featured RKO-Radio Pictures' actress; Florence Lake, screen ingenue, Helen Millarde, blonde and bewitching young lady, and Susan Fleming.

Interpreting the humour which is uppermost throughout the colourful story are Edna May Oliver, the star, a sure-fire laugh-getter, Ken Murray, noted vaudeville comedian; Roscoe Ates, the stammering printer of "Cimarron," Guinn Williams, Kate Price, Corn Witherspoon and Tom Francis.

"Rasputin and the Empress"

"Rasputin and the Empress," probably the most discussed motion picture of the year, will be shown from to-morrow at the Queen's following its successful run at the Astor Theatre in New York and extended showings in the principal cities of the United States. John, Ethel and Lionel Barrymore are starred in the three principal roles of the production, appearing together for the first time on the screen during their respective careers.

"Rasputin and the Empress" is based on an original story by Charles MacArthur, well known for his work on "The Front Page," "Lulu Belle" and other stage and screen dramas. The picture was directed by Richard Boleslawski, author of "The Way of a Lance" and "Lances Down," and for several years following his earlier work with the Moscow Art Theatre, a prominent figure in Hollywood.

The film is said to present with fidelity the personal details of the career of Russia's "Holy Devil," from his birth in a peasant community in Siberia through his rise to power, his association with the Czarina and his mysterious control of the Romanoff court.

John Barrymore has the part of Prince Chegodoff, intimate friend of the Czar and Czarina. Ethel Barrymore plays the Czarina, while Lionel Barrymore, last seen in "The Washington Masquerade" and before that in "Grand Hotel," is seen as Rasputin. The role of the Czar is filled by Ralph Morgan, and that of the little Czarvitch by Tad Alexander. Both Morgan and Alexander were recently seen in "Strange Interlude." Other important roles are played by Diana Wynyard, the English stage star, C. Henry Gordon and Edward Arnold.

In "Rasputin and the Empress," Ethel Barrymore makes her first appearance in a dialogue picture and has her first film role in a number of years. Her recent vehicles on the legitimate stage include "Scarlet Sister Mary," "The Kinkdoin of God," "The School for Scandal" and "The Constant Wife."

Although Miss Barrymore has not previously appeared in a production with her two brothers, John and Lionel were seen in joint roles in "Grand Hotel" and "Arsene Lupin."

Alexander Toluboff, Russian architect, assisted in planning and designing the ambitious court and cathedral backgrounds for the picture, which are said to be among the most spectacular of any utilized in a talking picture.

"The Kid from Spain"

Seventy-six beautiful chorus girls are far more difficult to costume for a big screen musical comedy like Eddie Cantor's "The Kid from Spain" than ten thousand soldiers for a six-month campaign.

For one costume alone, the black lace gowns in which the Goldwyn Girls are first seen at the King's Theatre, sixty women worked for three weeks at the Samuel Goldwyn costume department, sewing together the spider-web thinness of the material and working in the trimming. So delicate and fragile is the material that the gowns could not be stored on hangers.

"The Good Companions"

Those favouring the happy ending to their entertainment, and most people prefer it that way, will be interested to know whether, in the film of "The Good Companions" Susie Dean is kinder to Inigo Jolliffe than she is in the novel.

It will be remembered that in the novel Susie leaves Inigo rather in the air. If nobody else turns up she may marry him. The problem was rather a difficult one for the director, Victor Saville. If in the finale of the film the pair were completely happy, he was altering the novel, thereby incurring the wrath of the critics. If on the other hand, he faithfully followed the novel, he might conceivably disappoint those who had not read the book and preferred their film fare to end with a hint of orange blossoms.

In a quondary, the director temporized, and those seeing the film will find that Susie is much kinder to Inigo and that into the concluding scenes of the film may be read their ultimate happiness.

The elfin Jessie Matthews plays the role of Susie Dean, whilst John Gielgud plays Inigo Jolliffe. Other characters are splendidly presented by Edmund Gwenn (Joss Oakroyd), Mary Glynn (Miss Trant), Percy Parsons (Morton Micham) and A. W. Baskcomb (Jimmie Nunn).

"The Good Companions" will be shown at the King's Theatre on Friday.

Mr. Cope's striking articles on the world economic crisis which were recently published in the Hongkong Telegraph are now available in pamphlet form.

One of the features, repaying study, is the close similarity between the plan of reform suggested by this local writer, and certain aspects of the Roosevelt recovery programme.

The author's ideas are naturally far too advanced for active promotion at the present time, but they are particularly interesting in view of the fact that President Roosevelt, in striking out on a path of his own, has travelled in the same direction.

The pamphlet is one of forty-four pages and can be obtained from the South China Morning Post at a cost of—

BASEBALL RIOT

MOB TRIES TO GATE CRASH

WORLD SERIES INTRODUCTION

New York, Oct. 3.

The World Series was introduced in New York to-day with a sensational riot by 15,000 baseball fans, who endeavoured to obtain admittance by force of numbers to the already capacity-filled Polo Grounds.

A crowd of 48,000 had already been packed in the enclosure when the rioting broke out in the street outside.

Almost without warning, the mob surged towards the gates, trampling on each other in vain efforts to break through the cordon of police.

The police wielded their clubs in their efforts to keep off the invaders, and they succeeded after a furious melee in preventing the gates being broken down.

MANY INJURED.

Nevertheless, over twenty people were badly injured in the scuffle, and several policemen, as well as civilians, were trampled on and received minor injuries.

The first match of the series saw the New York Giants, Na-

INVESTMENT TRUST REVELATIONS

SENATE INQUIRY EVIDENCE

Washington, Oct. 3.

Sensational evidence was given during the Senate investigation of the operations of Messrs. Dillon, Read and Company, whose rise to prominence in New York bankers circles provided one of the sensations of the last fifteen years.

It was revealed that the Company, in organising an Investment Trust in 1924, obtained for $100,000 certain stock which was later listed on the Stock Exchange at $339,000,000!

Mr. Clarence Dillon, the famous head of the firm, was the principal witness, and G.N. Wickersham, the former Attorney-General was mentioned as a prominent customer of the Company.

Under the present circumstances, Mr. Yul continued, discussion of the outside roads question could not be resumed. That issue, too, had been on the verge of breakdown for some time, largely on account of Japanese demands concerning control of the outside roads in the Hongkong area.

NEGOTIATIONS BREAK DOWN

MUNICIPAL ISSUES IN SHANGHAI

CHINESE DROP DISCUSSION

Shanghai, Oct. 4.

Two sets of highly important negotiations between the Chinese authorities and the Shanghai Municipal Council were broken off yesterday, namely, the questions of factory inspection and the supervision and control of the outside roads. These issues have been the leading Municipal problems for many months.

The Secretary-General of the Municipal Council, Mr. Sterling Fessenden, at a meeting of the Council yesterday afternoon, reported that he had again discussed the question of factory inspection with Mr. Yul, the Secretary-General of the Municipality of Greater Shanghai, who declared that as the Council maintained that it must have control of factory inspection in the Settlement, the Chinese authorities would not continue the negotiations.

Under the present circumstances, Mr. Yul continued, discussion of the outside roads question could not be resumed. That issue, too, had been on the verge of breakdown for some time, largely on account of Japanese demands concerning control of the outside roads in the Hongkong area.
